

Feudalism, "A Contract of Silence"

Chiron Last

Kings and Queens,

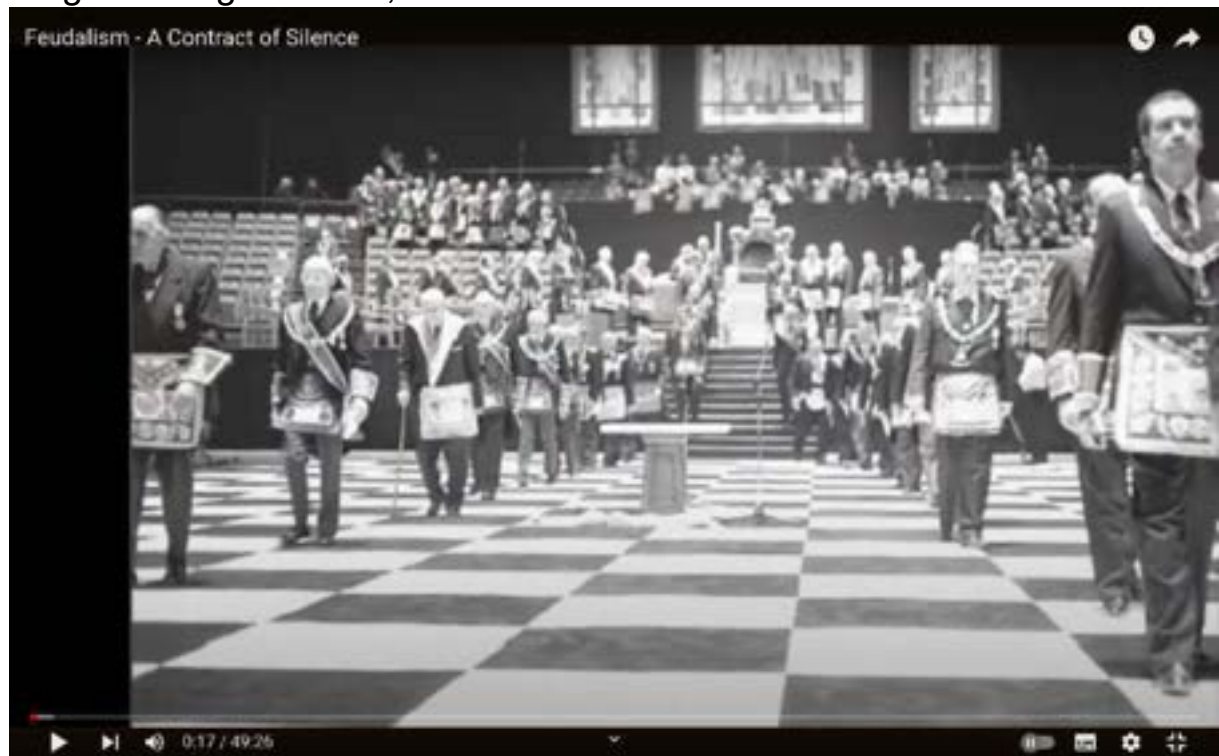

Lords and Barons,

Bishops and Clergy,

Knights and guildsmen,

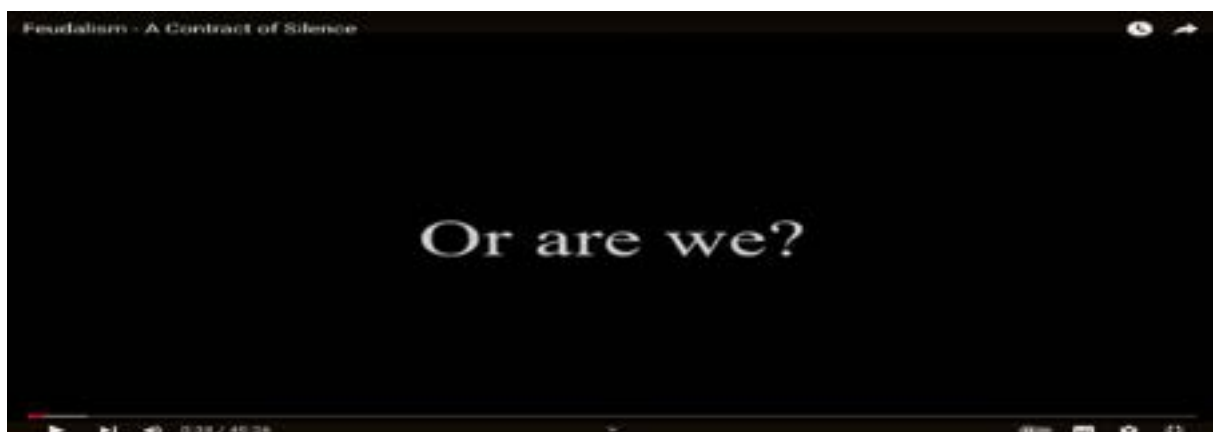

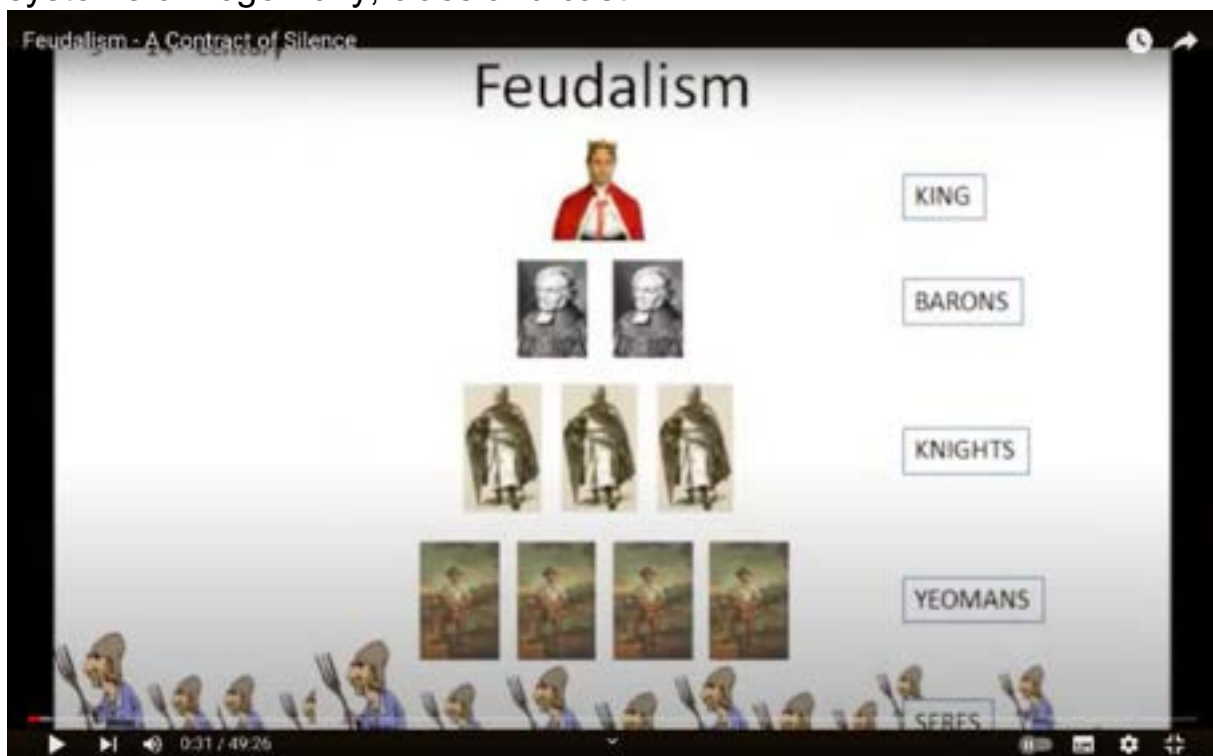

villains and serfs.

Words that seem to reflect an era buried in antiquity, whereby civilization has long since done away with such outdated concepts and humans are now free from the stranglehold of these outmoded systems of hegemony, class and cast.

That's what the current paradigm would like everyone to believe, using the opinionated assurances of legal scholars, with examples of modern technology and all of the comforts afforded by a modern lifestyle as proofs that such systems are no longer in place and that the world has moved well beyond these ideas and into a future that has imbued the individual with more freedom than ever before but is this actually the case? Or is it simply a notion that has been widely accepted through the repeating of a mantra, not unlike any other religion, whereby each follower called a citizen blithely goes along with a pre-ordained program of rules and rituals, while being contemptuous of any who dare question the parameters that have been set up around everyone. Is this not so?

The offensive and defensive measures are built into the construct itself.

The private armies attacking the defectors.

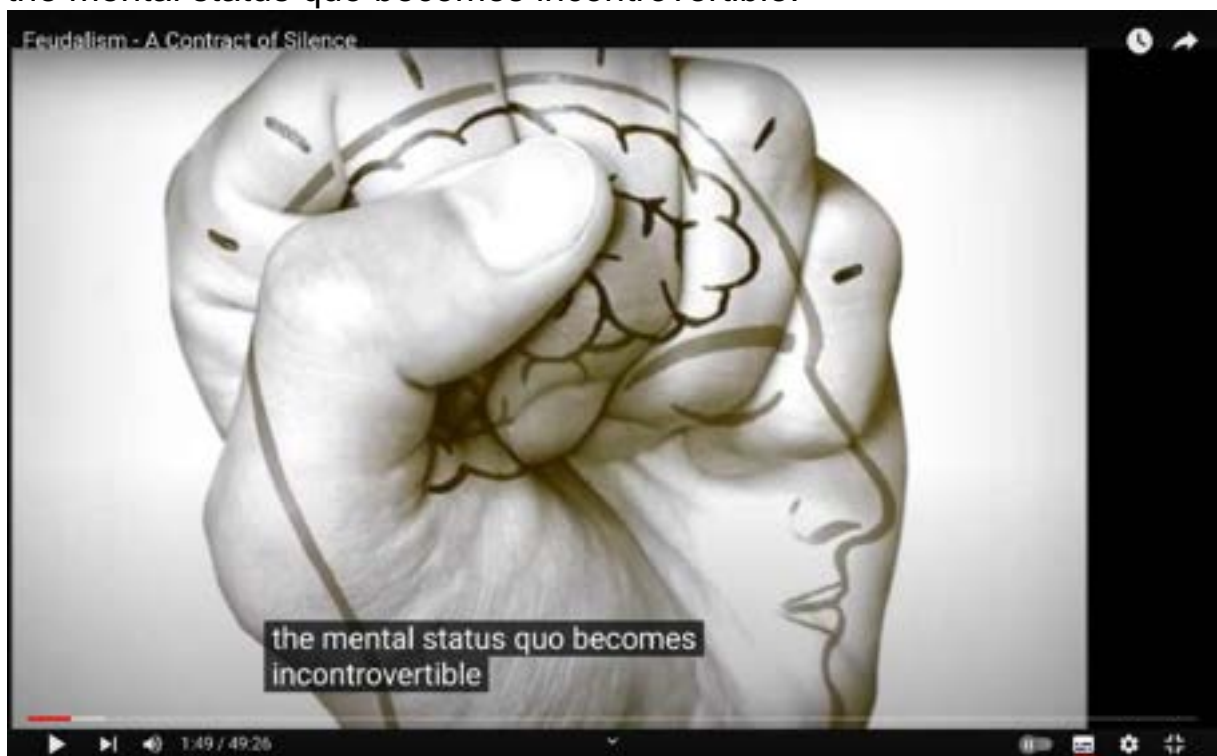

and the public defending the actions.

Belief in the system itself becomes absolute;

the mental status quo becomes incontrovertible.

Those in the grips of this state remain unmoved by anything that shows this system to be anything other than what they have been told to believe that it is.

The investment within it, is far too great. The positions of mental Reality have become the REALITY, which must be defended at all costs.

To not do so would lead to a subjective apocalypse.

The unveiling of so much deception and the consequences of having to look at one's own actions and the collective and personal participation within such an arrangement.

From this basis it will be shown that the enterprise of feudalism is not one which has been left behind in the history books, to be discussed only by students and scholars, but one which is still being lived out this very moment.

This same arrangement is being fully actuated every single day regardless of anyone's insistence otherwise.

Some feel that the main problems of society are rooted in capitalism, communism, or the various isms of religion.

But these doctrines are simply the thesis and anti-thesis which binds together the synthesis of the dominant-“ism”-

Feudalism.

a contract of silence.

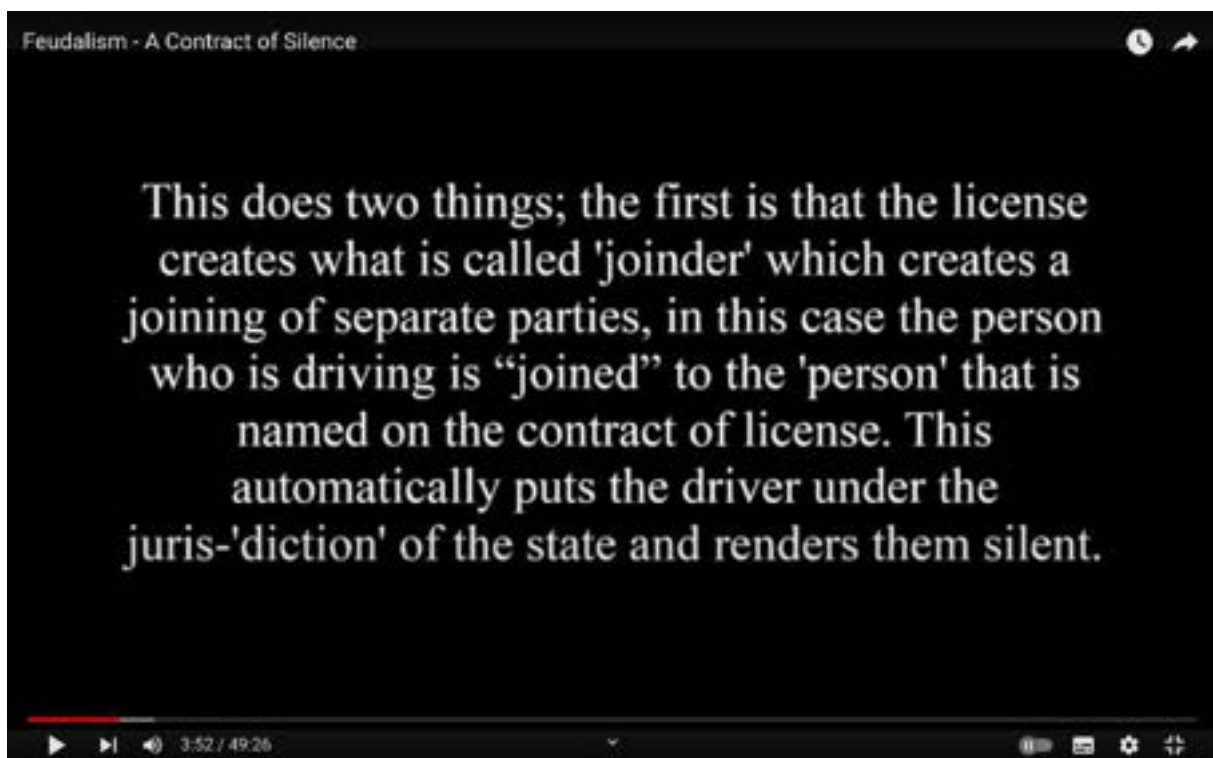

If a person happens to be driving down a public road and gets pulled over by a Policy/Police officer.

The first thing that the costume wearing official will ask the driver for is their license and registration.

This is the reason that if an officer arrests someone, they give the citizen the Miranda warning which indicates the right to remain silent.

Feudalism - A Contract of Silence

MIRANDA WARNING

1. YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO REMAIN SILENT.
2. ANYTHING YOU SAY CAN AND WILL BE USED AGAINST YOU IN A COURT OF LAW.
3. YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO TALK TO A LAWYER AND HAVE HIM PRESENT WITH YOU WHILE YOU ARE BEING QUESTIONED.
4. IF YOU CANNOT AFFORD TO HIRE A LAWYER, ONE WILL BE APPOINTED TO REPRESENT YOU BEFORE ANY QUESTIONING IF YOU WISH.
5. YOU CAN DECIDE AT ANY TIME TO EXERCISE THESE RIGHTS AND NOT ANSWER ANY QUESTIONS OR MAKE ANY STATEMENTS.

WAIVER

DO YOU UNDERSTAND EACH OF THESE RIGHTS I HAVE EXPLAINED TO YOU?
HAVING THESE RIGHTS IN MIND, DO YOU WISH TO TALK TO US NOW?

4:06 / 49:26

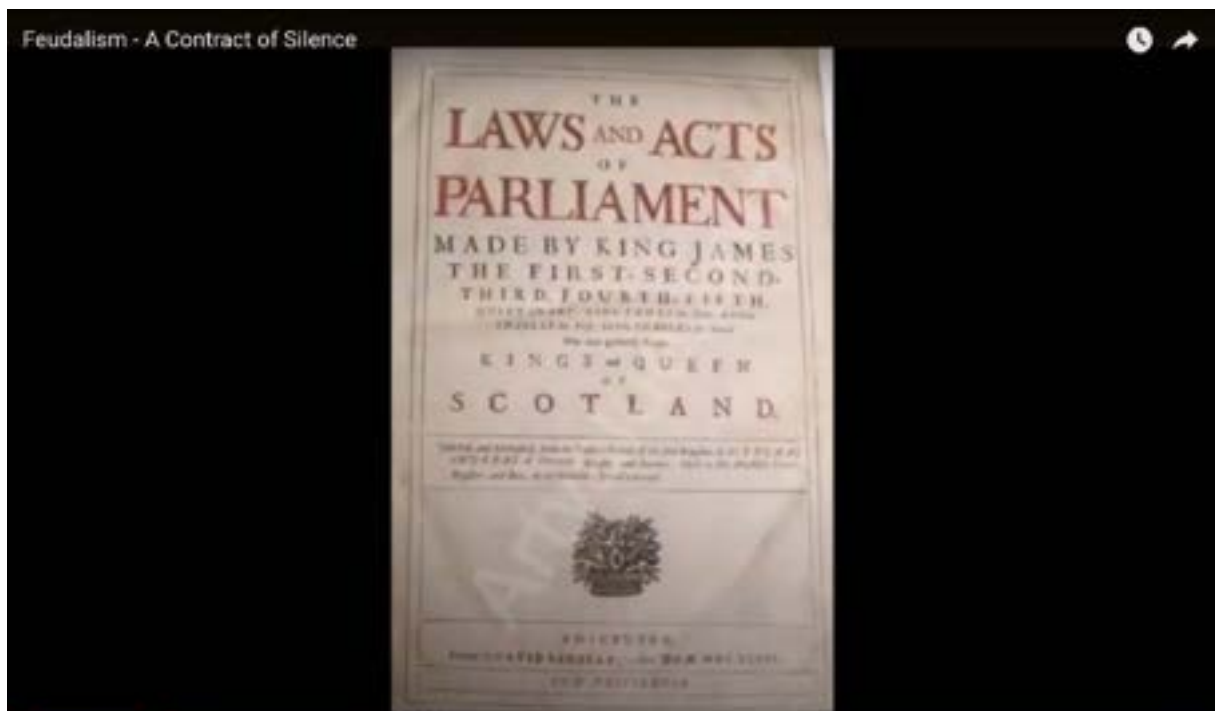

Feudalism - A Contract of Silence

Why the right to REMAIN silent? Simply because after the contract of silence/license was handed over, the person rendered themselves silent, so the policy officer is simply reiterating a fact – now you have the right to continue being silent.

4:15 / 49:26

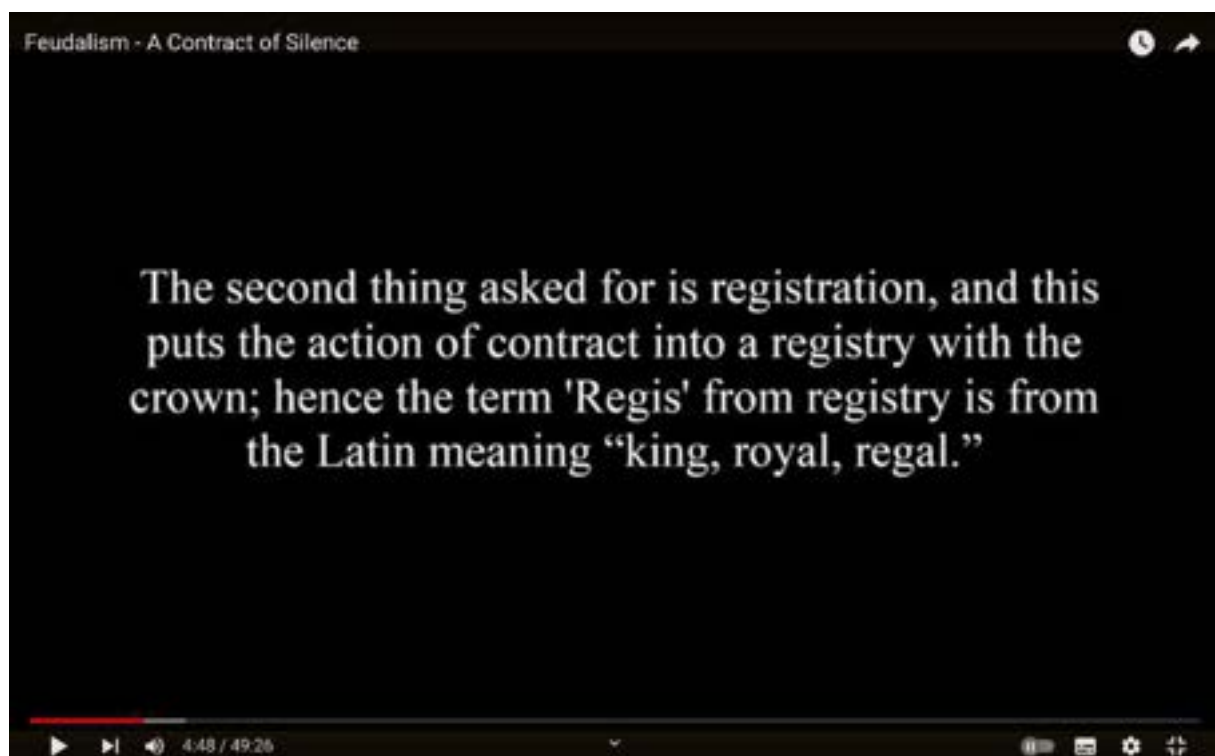

The driver is now a proven subject of the state and is therefore subject to listen to all of the commandments, acts and statutes that govern that state.

This is why

A policy officer's vehicle is decorated with red and blue lights for the reason that the mixture of red and blue creates purple, which is the color of royalty.

Why was it not asked - what happens if both are taken?

5:07 / 49:26

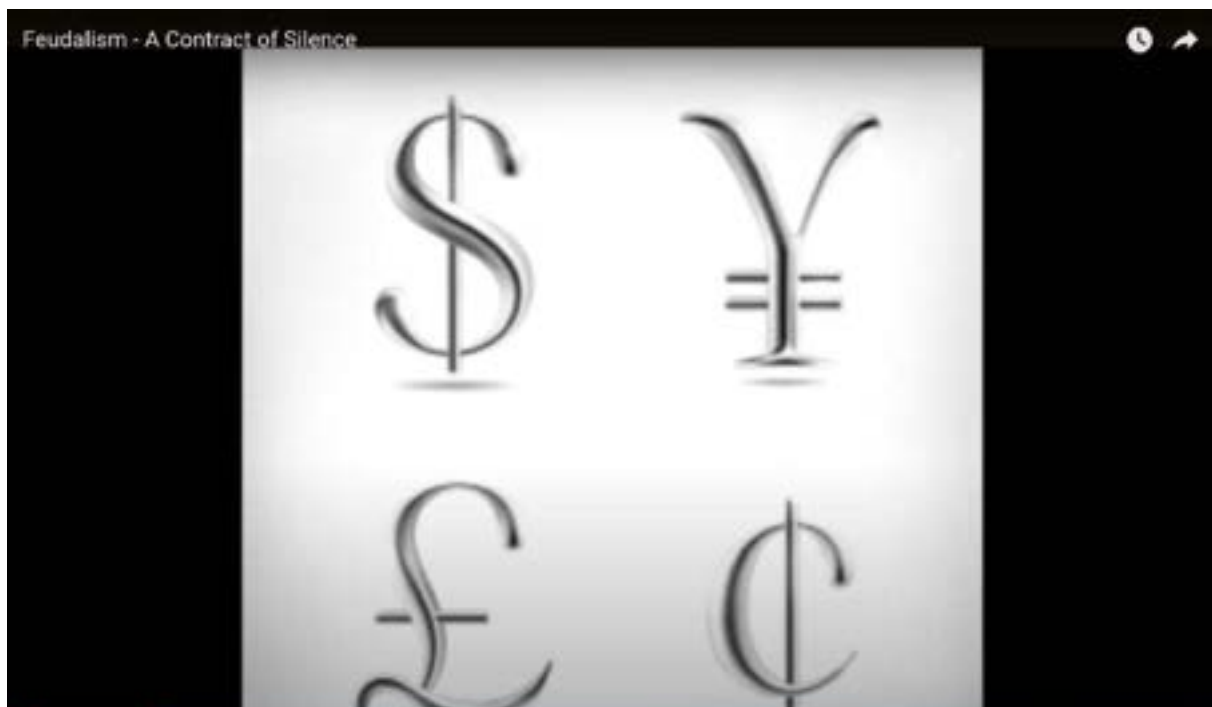

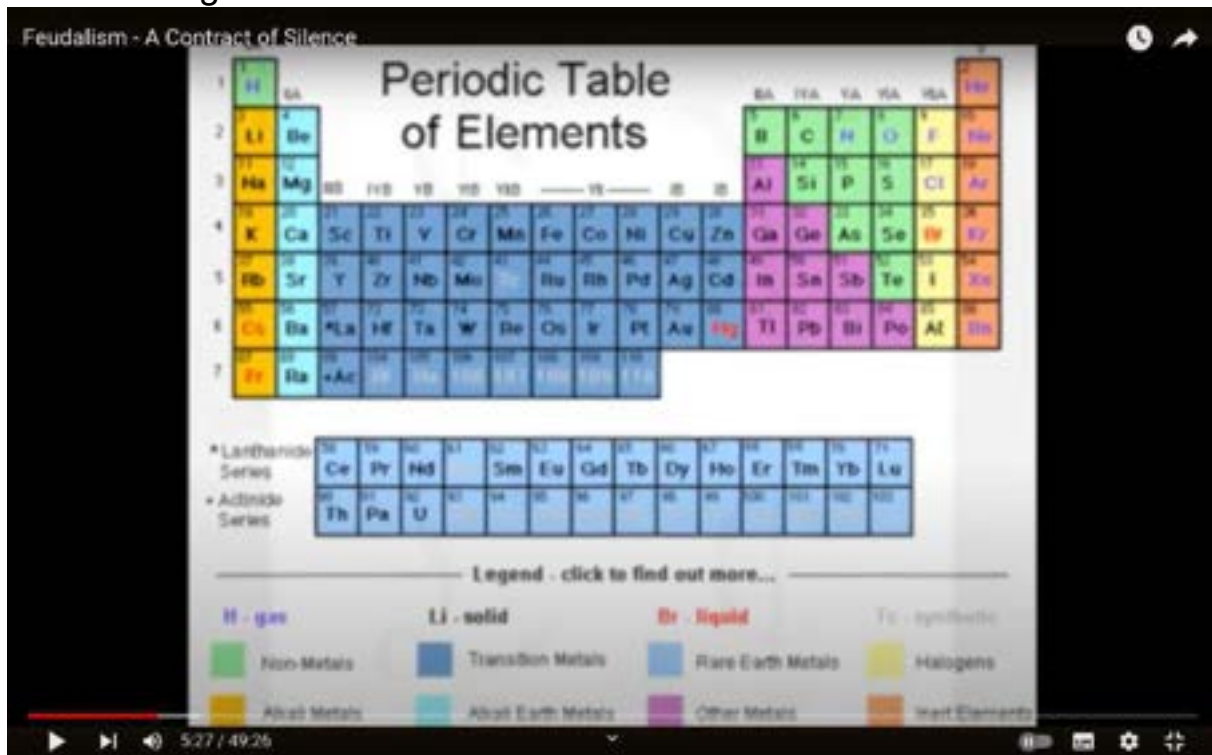

The person is now considered, by way of contract, a 'loyal' subject to the crown, whereby the anagram of 'loyal' is 'alloy.'

5:19 / 49:26

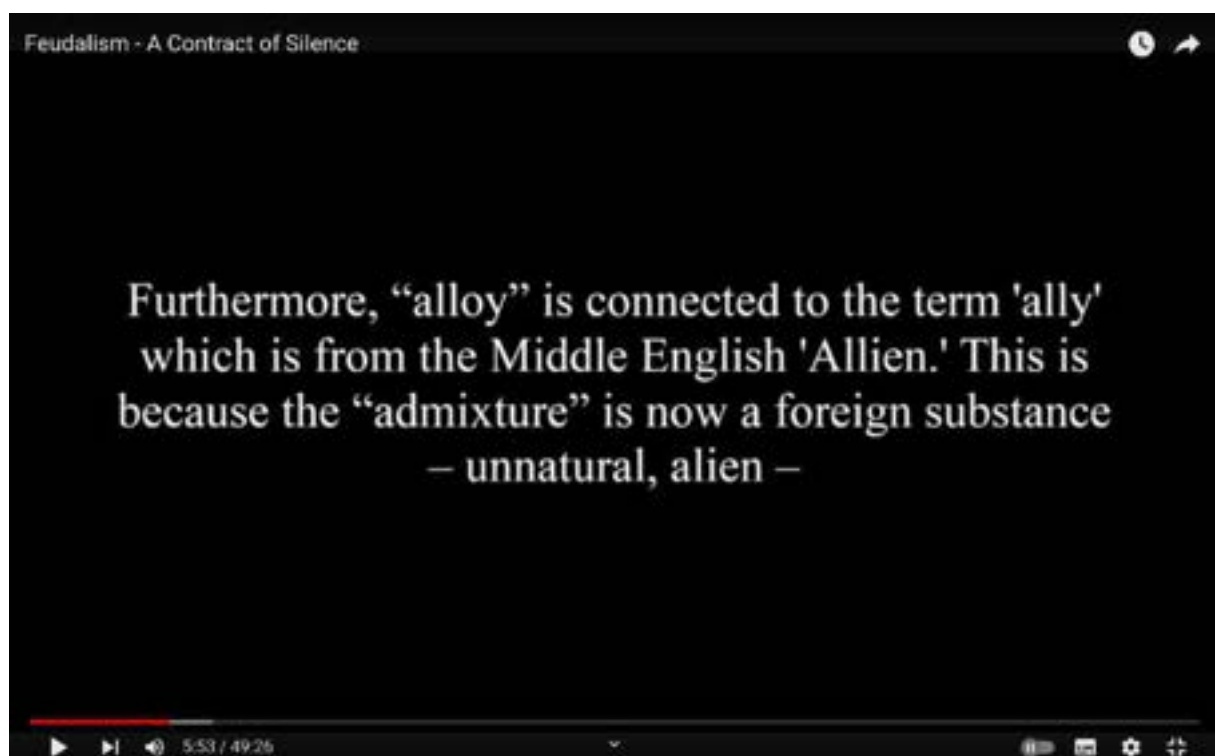

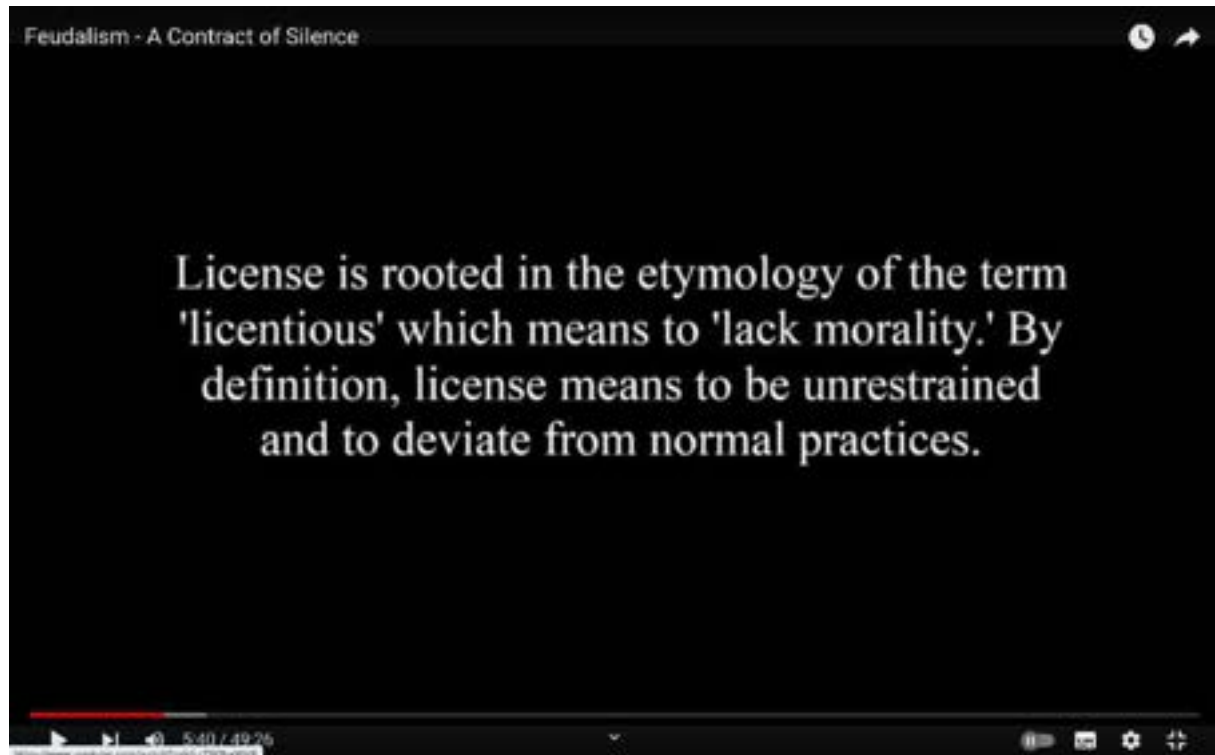

By definition, an alloy is an admixture that debases or reduces the value of something.

It is to corrupt morally and make it profane.

Which is the reason that

The Middle English 'allien' is from the Latin
'alligare' meaning "to bind to."

▶ ⏮ 🔊 6:03 / 49:25

'Bind' is cognate with the word bond as connected to the stock market with its stocks and bonds.

To be a foreigner is to be an alien through the context of Law.

An alien/foreigner can have a lien put onto it which is the right to take someone's property if an obligation is not discharged.

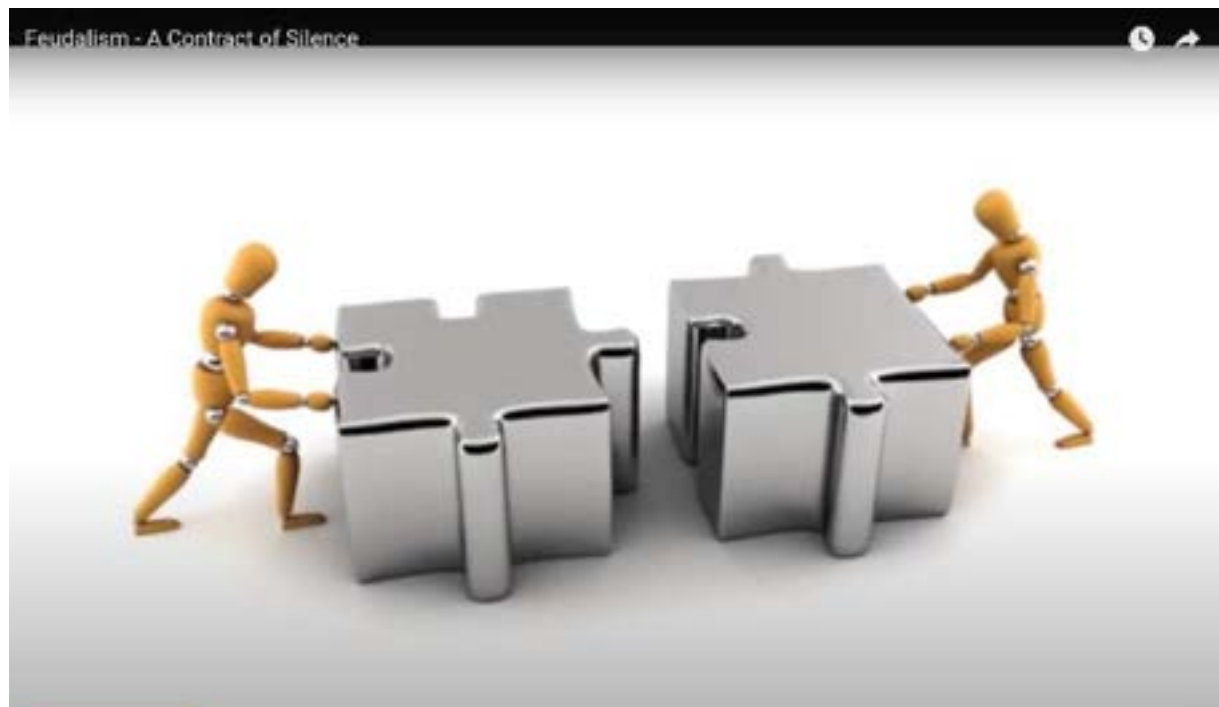

It is to put the obligation of debt onto the stock and bond market.

Lien is also from the Latin word for “spleen”, which plays an important role in the regulation of red blood cells.

Once joinder is established this creates a John Doe, which is to indicate that a true defendant does not exist, making the fictitious persons joined as pledges.

To pledge is to create an act of binding and loyalty as already shown,

but is also

which is linked back with the term lien.

All of this is done in full agreement, since a maximum of law is silence is agreement to the actions.

7:24 / 49:25

Feudalism - A Contract of Silence

7:27 / 49:25

License/Silence gives consent, which is to agree to the meaning of something.

The police are also connected to the federal level of command with 'federal' being from the Latin prefix 'foeder-' on par with 'foedo' meaning "defile, pollute, contaminate, corrupt, disgrace, dishonor." If it will be remembered, this was also the definition of 'alloy.'

7:43 / 49:25

Furthermore, to adulterate something is to corrupt, debase, and make something impure through the addition of a foreign material, substance, or element. It is to alter it, as the etymology of adulterate shows – this creates a 'back formation,' or the creation of a neologism. A newly "coined" word; and in occult knowledge a word always signifies the language of DNA. The hidden meaning of the noun adult is "A dolt" which is a "stupid person." (To Adult-erate and corrupt)

But Jesus called them unto him, and said, Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God.

— Luke 18:16 (KJV)

Another point not to be overlooked is within the word “federation” from the Latin 'fœdus' for “covenant.” A covenant is a signed written agreement between two or more parties, and is related in all obviousness to the 'arc of the covenant' – meaning “rulership by the coven.” (Arche/Arc means 'ruler') This has to do with land, title, and ownership as shown in the Medieval Latin 'feodum' meaning “land or property that is bestowed upon one in return for services rendered.”

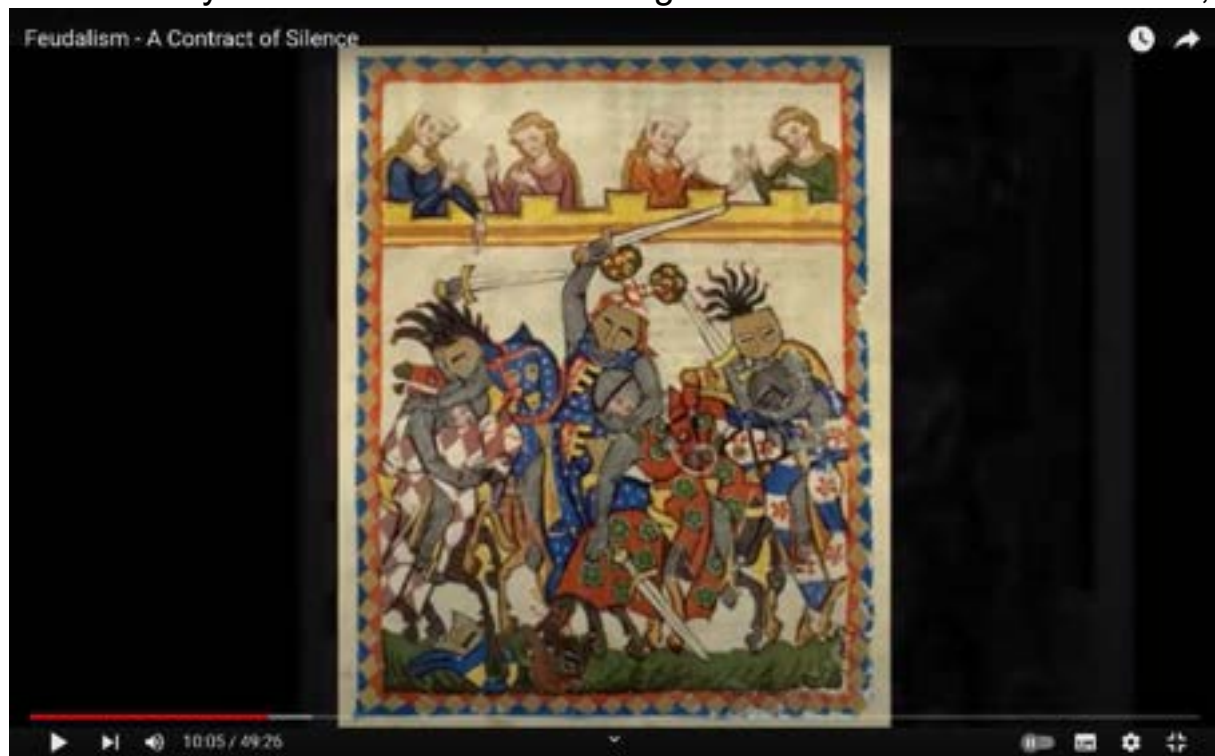

“Feud” is tangent to the Middle English 'feodary' that also denotes “land bestowed from an overlord in exchange for service.” Feudalism itself is an exchange of feuds – to continuously battle over something. From the Latin prefix 'foeder-' there is also seen the term 'foederatus' for "leagued, federated, combined; having a treaty, bound by treaty." Foeder, foedo, foedus, feodum, feodary, foederatus, federal, feudal.
The connections remain solidified.

Resistance is Feudal!

There is an absolute insistence that feudalism itself only began sometime in the 8th Century under the Carolingian Dynasty and ended sometime in the 15th century.

For those thinking that armed service was the only means that those under this system could serve their obligation to their Lords and Masters, are not taking note that even history proves otherwise with payments of money or taxation being a replacement of this service, exactly as seen today.

Likewise, it will be argued that the customs of feudalism were abolished by such historical events as the French Revolution or the reformations of Napoleon which helped create what is now called the nation-state.

Feudalism - A Contract of Silence

Napoleon's Reforms

Class System	• Emigrés could return if swore loyalty to new French gov't. • Peasants kept lands they'd bought from Church and nobles • New nobility established through a meritocracy (e.g., Legion of Honor)
Economy	• Controlled prices • Encouraged industrial growth • Strengthened the nation's infrastructure
Education	• Nationally-controlled public schools
Government	• Strengthened the national government • Ran an efficient bureaucracy
Laws – Napoleonic Code	• Equality before the law • Religious tolerance • End to feudalism • But women lost many of their rights
Religion – Concordat of 1801	• Church under government control • Religious freedom

10:25 / 49:26

Again, these events and many others did nothing to abolish or stifle the system of feudalism itself,

Feudalism - A Contract of Silence

10:32 / 49:26

except perhaps metaphorically rearrange the deck chairs on the Titanic.

It is said legally that “custom trumps law” and the customs of feudalism are sustained and practiced by the populace every single day.

To bow shows deference, and this is done by the RE-presentatives of every individual within the public realm. Their action is everyone's action.
Silence is consent.

Capitalism, communism, socialism, distributism, etc., are all simply branches that lead to the same tree.

It will be shown clearly, rationally and definitively that every person exists under a fiefdom and always has.

The legal scholars and pundits can ferociously argue against the facts, but the evidence is overwhelmingly clear when it is looked at.

To use an example, if one were standing outside in the rain getting soaked and feeling cold, they would not say to themselves or to anyone standing beside them, "it's definitely not raining."

Yet a person claiming to be a meteorologist, or a professional weather expert comes along and states that, "it's not raining, because rain was abolished from weather systems centuries ago."

What would you say in response? This professional is adamant and passionate about their mental position, and in fact has already convinced everyone else that they've come across that rain is certainly something that doesn't happen anymore and what you're experiencing at the moment is something that's just called 'proprietary wetness'.

Because humanity is now free from the environmental effects that were previously placed upon them from what the Ancients experienced and knew as 'rain'.

Proprietary wetness is a natural phenomenon that has nothing to do with oppressive rain or water coming down from the sky.

The expert goes on to explain that as you experience this proprietary wetness, the mind plays a trick with your eyes and makes it appear that your external environment has water falling as if from the heavens, it is touted that this is simply an illusion or trick of the mind which is very similar to the illusion of emotion and that there are also no such things as emotions but only different chemicals produced by the brain which are interpreted as signals, which the person then senses or feels.

The argument seems to make such logical sense even though all of the evidence points out that everything that is being said is a total fabrication built upon a foundation of lies and deception.

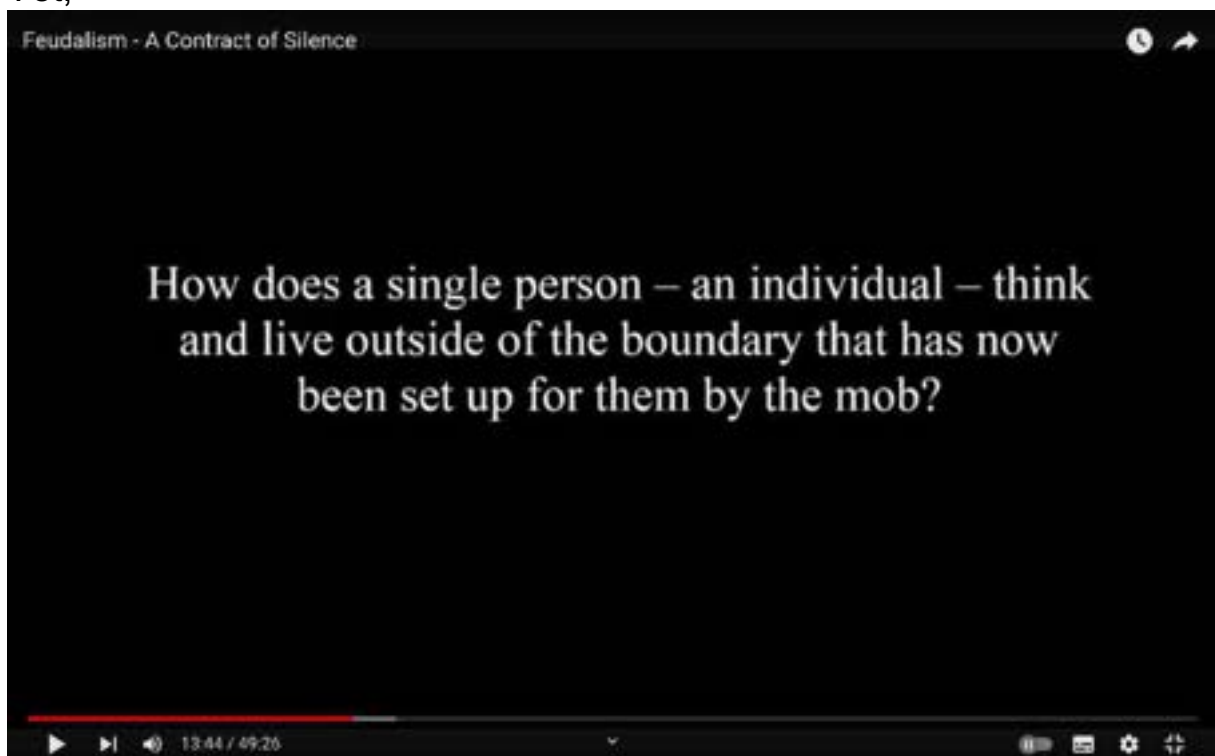

Yet all of your friends, family, neighbors and the rest of the world have already been convinced that rain doesn't exist.

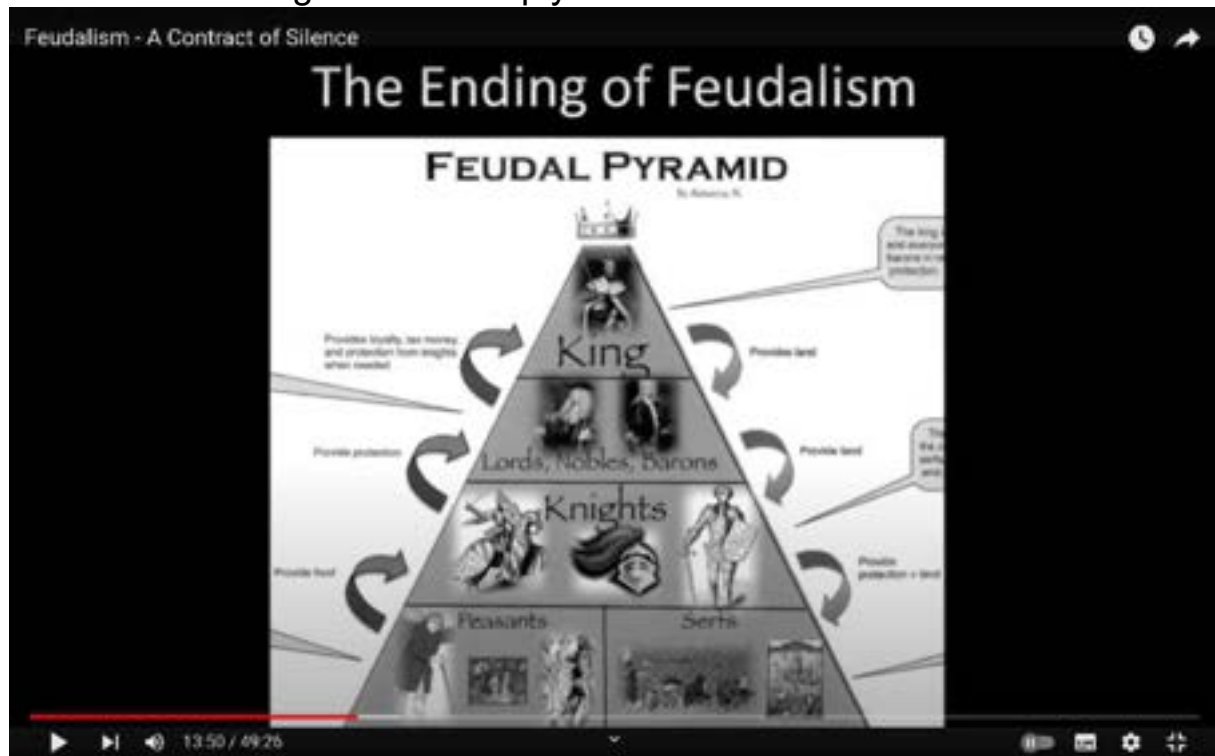

It's completely absurd to accept this proprietary wetness as a fact.

Yet,

Feudalism no longer exists simply.

because we're told it doesn't,

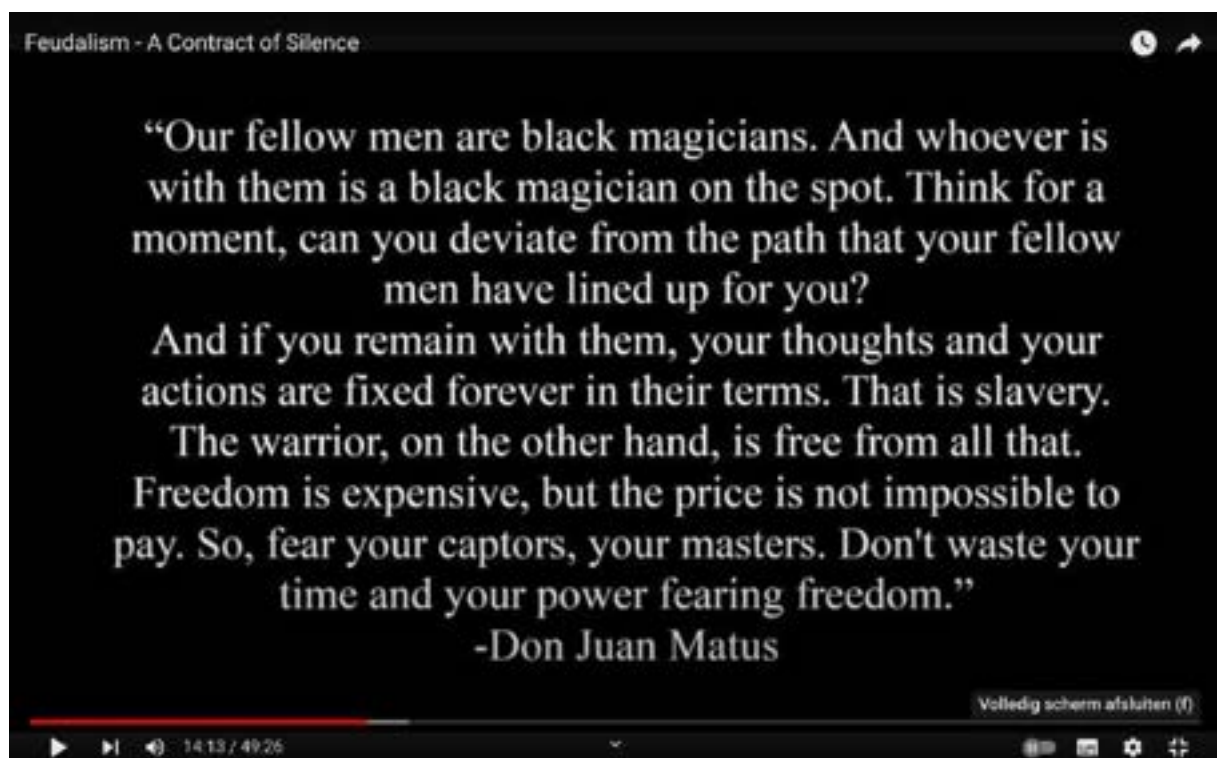

even when everything outside of personal opinion is telling us that it does?

That is the dissonant situation that is happening:

Black magic is used for personal gain and the continuation of systems which support greed and contempt of everyone else except for the self.

The example of rain not existing is akin to Black Magic mental manipulation, which is what is happening by telling everyone that feudalism doesn't exist when it clearly does.

Let's continue... The written definition of feudalism in Merriam-Webster's is as follows:

The second definition is as follows:

Every aspect of this definition is going to be looked at,

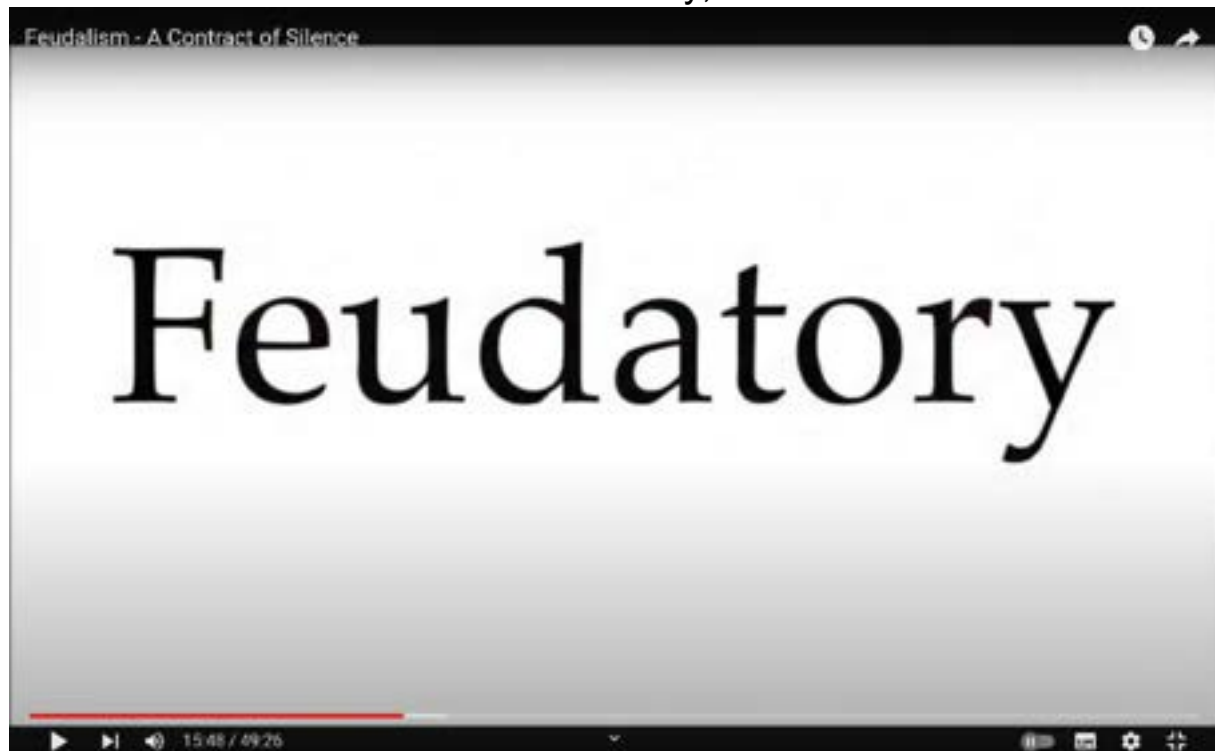

but what is obviously notable from the start is the fact that feudalism itself is noted to be any political or social system that is even similar to Medieval feudalism.

This leads us to what is called a feudatory, which is a dependent lordship otherwise known as a fee.

What is a fee?

Humans are traded as chattel or cattle property, which is why money is used as a symbol or medium of exchange in the first place.

It can also be suggested that the phonetic variation of "mankind" can easily be interpreted as "mankine."

A fee is said by definition as a state in land held in feudal law from a lord on the condition of homage and service.

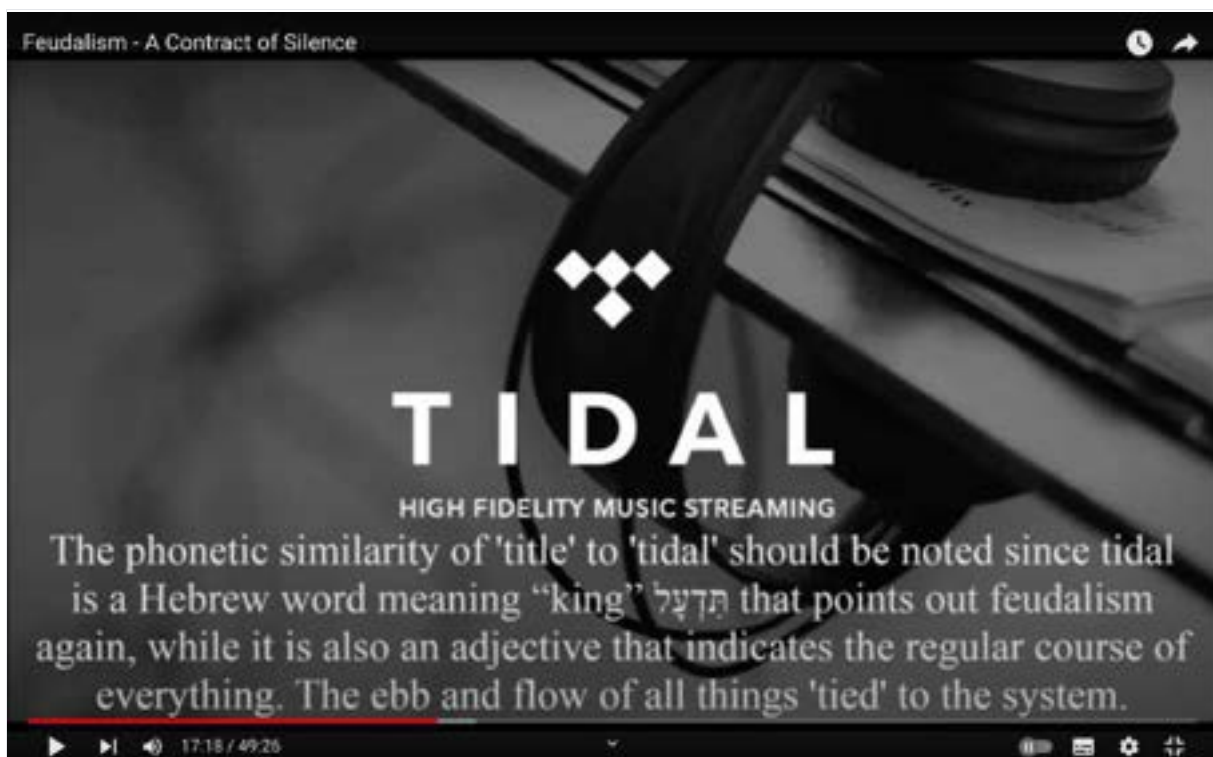

It's because nothing has changed, despite the false assurances from the so-called experts.

Title is simply a legal link that creates evidence of a person's ownership rights in property.

The phonetic similarity of "title" to "title" should be noted, since "title" is a Hebrew word meaning "king," which points out feudalism again. It is also an adjective that indicates the regular course of everything. The ebb and flow of all things tied to the system.

Feudalism - A Contract of Silence

17:32 / 49:26

Feudalism - A Contract of Silence

17:34 / 49:26

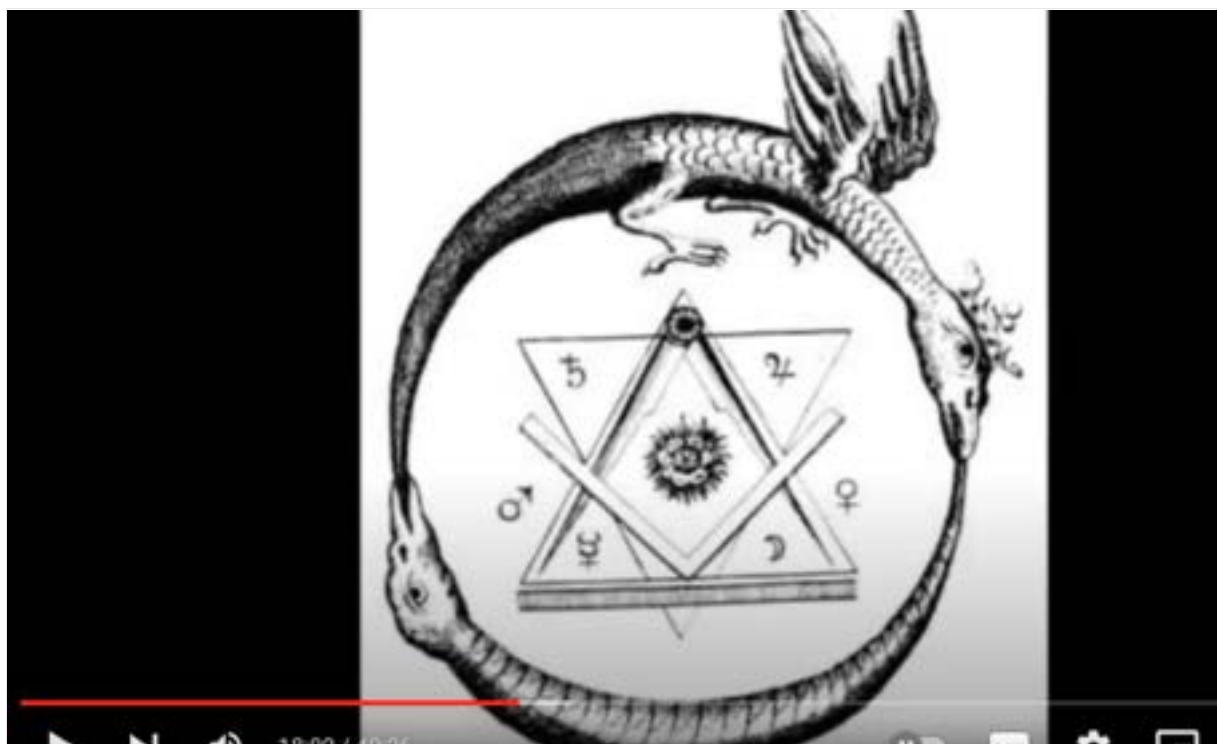

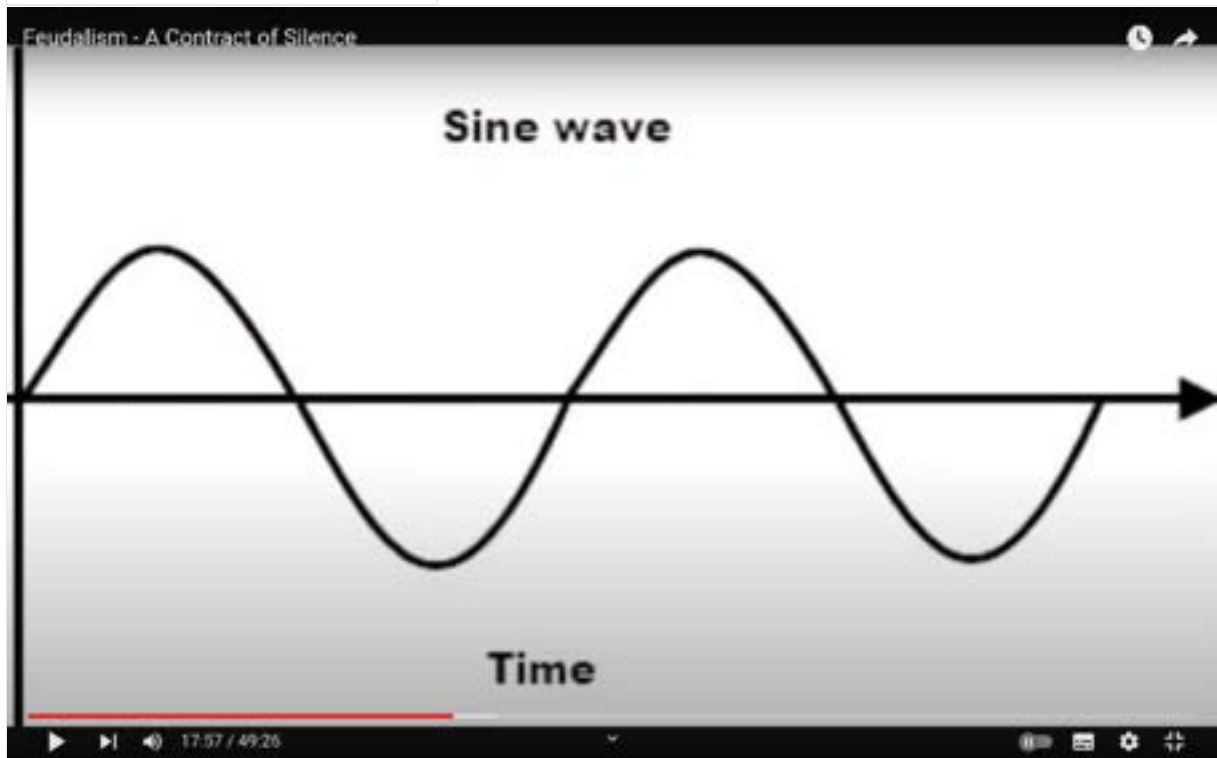

This creates the ultimate paradox because one is both for and against it all, which makes a perfect duality or a tie—an equality of opinion or outcome.

Life is followed by death; actually followed by it and of course death is followed by life.

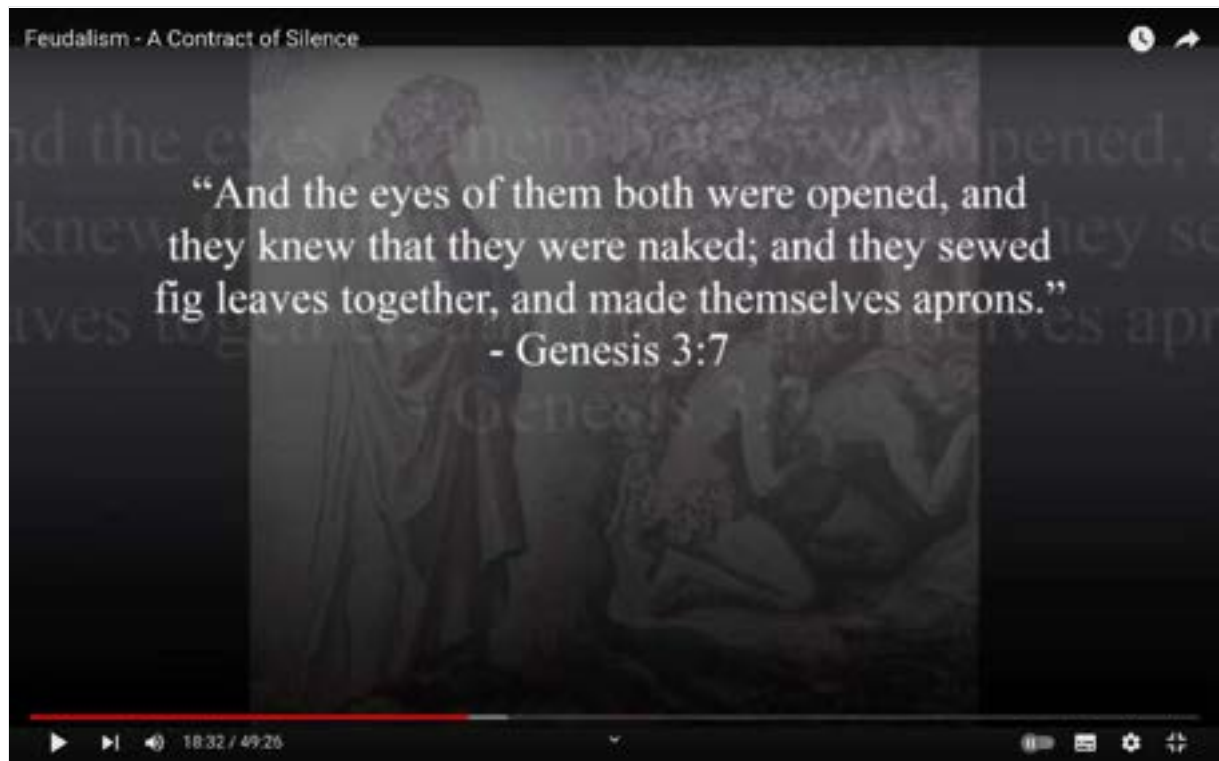

It is the sine wave of time.

"Sine" is from the Latin meaning "without." It is to be on the "outside" of something as opposed to within it. The analogy would apply to being imprisoned and then released – over and over again. "Wave" is from the Old English 'wæfan' meaning "to clothe." Hence, sine wave also indicates "without clothes" and gives a direct connection to the Genesis passage of "nakedness" in the garden.

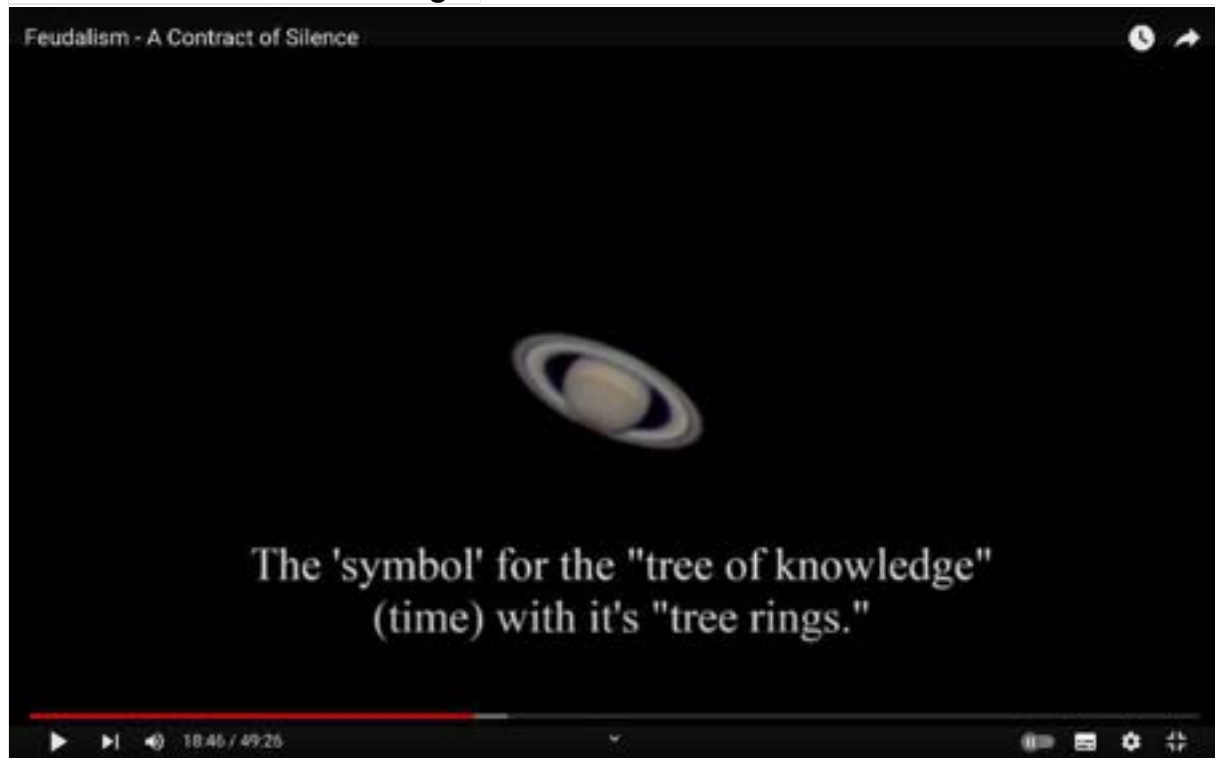

There is an undivided aspect that is without time in the purity of the Eternal, which changed when there was an acceptance of the offering of time from the Tree of Knowledge.

It is the ability to repeat things, yet also reproduce.

This is why there is an emphasis in the Genesis passage on the phrase "they knew that they were naked," which indicates the past tense.

Going back to "tide" in English law, there was a customs house officer called a "tidesman," who was appointed to attend to ships until the customs were paid upon them.

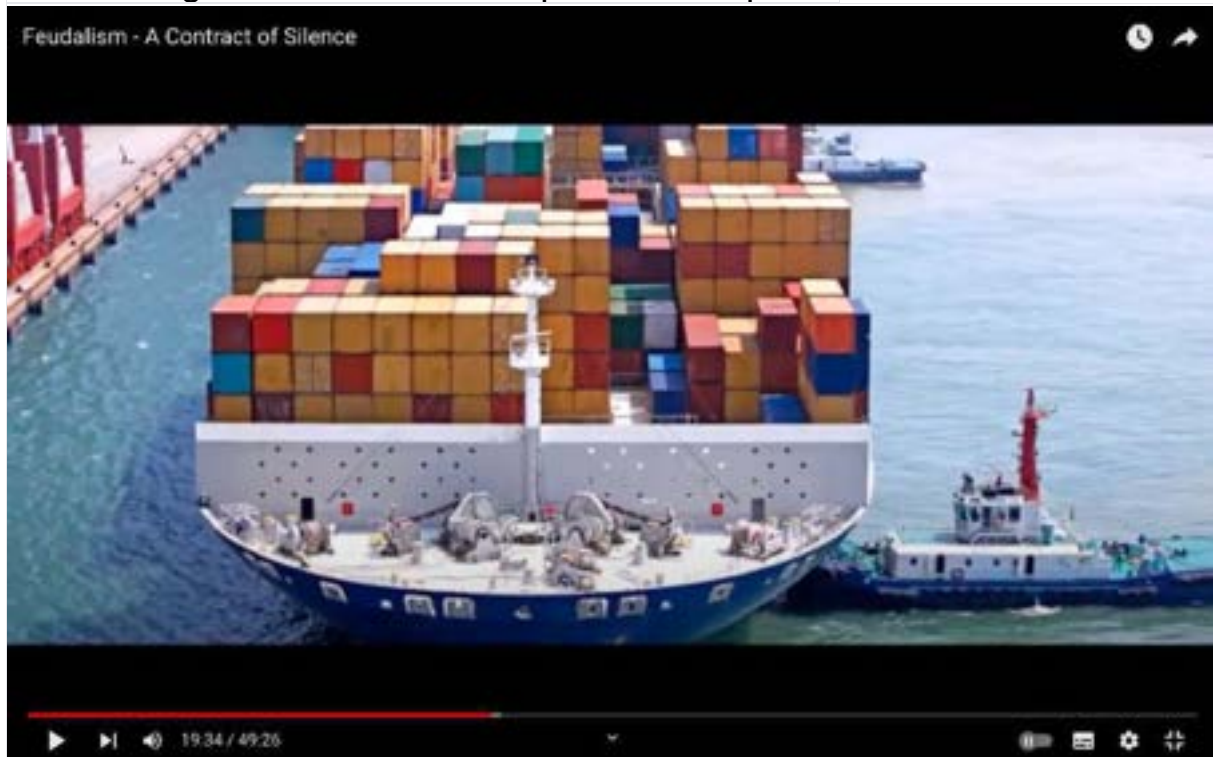

This is the reason that to this day, especially when crossing fictional borderlines, there are customs duties. A custom is money collected under a tariff, which is a government tax on imports and exports.

Every human being is sentenced to pay this levy because every single birth is considered to be an import that came from somewhere else, where it was exported.

This is another facet of the commercial law of the sea,

which is the reason that

Feudalism - A Contract of Silence

In commerce you are considered to be a CUSTOM-er, and through the legal definition, a custom is a practice of long and unvarying habit that has come to have the force of law. It is said that 'custom trumps law.'

19:56 / 49:26

Through an action of change a tide -title- was created, which produced an effective ownership towards a king.

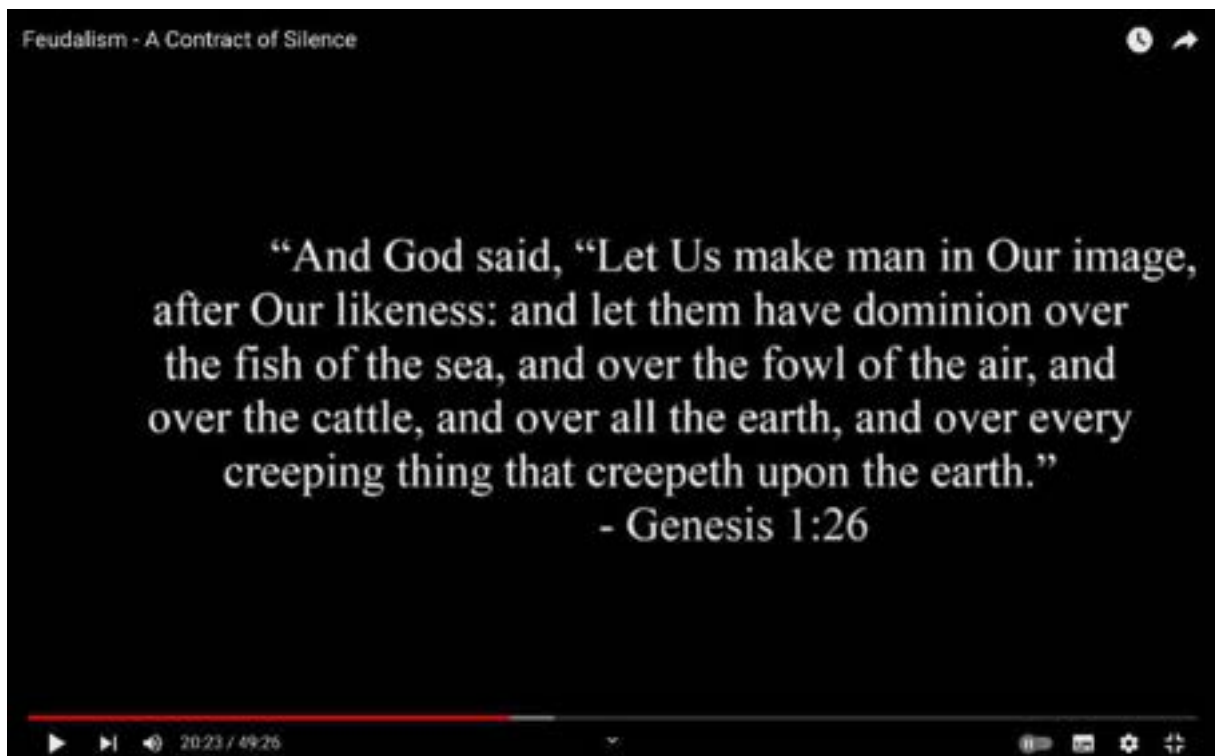

Feudalism - A Contract of Silence

Eating from the tree, or "trinity" of 'time.'

20:10 / 49:26

If we look at the first chapter of Genesis, the statements are always centered towards God.

This created an original trust and clearly showed that there were more beings present than just God, as the Hebrew term "Elohim" also demonstrates.

Yet, this all changed early on in the second chapter.

Lord God

20:53 / 49:26

Clearly, the term "Lord" is the marked difference that has been added from the first chapter. It is an honorary title, one of rank, which is feudalistic in nature. The book went from "God" to "Lord God,"

21:06 / 49:26

and it is this "Lord God" who planted the Garden of Eden and put the tree of life tree and the tree of knowledge of Good and Evil in the midst of the garden

The original trust is broken because of a change.

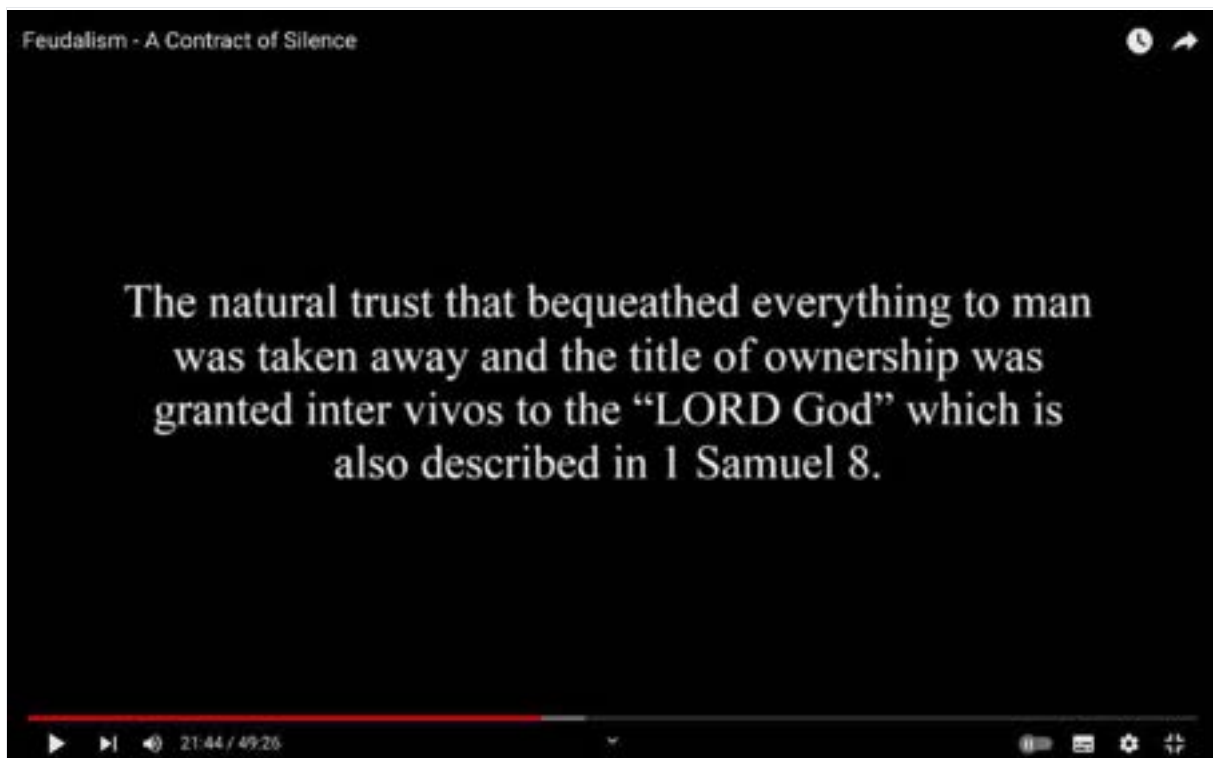

Their eyes were opened, obviously signifying a change in perception;

the ability to comprehend in a different capacity.

Now, because of this variation and division, there were always two ways to look at a thing.

“And Samuel told all the words of the LORD unto the people that asked of him a king. And he said, This will be the manner of the king that shall reign over you: He will take your sons, and appoint them for himself, for his chariots, and to be his horsemen; and some shall run before his chariots. And he will appoint him captains over thousands, and captains over fifties; and will set them to ear his ground, and to reap his harvest, and to make his instruments of war, and instruments of his chariots. And he will take your daughters to be confectionaries, and to be cooks, and to be bakers. And he will take your fields, and your vineyards, and your oliveyards, even the best of them, and give them to his servants. And he will take the tenth of your seed, and of your vineyards, and give to his officers, and to his servants. And he will take your menservants, and your maidservants, and your goodliest young men, and your asses, and put them to his work. He will take the tenth of your sheep: and ye shall be his servants. And ye shall cry out in that day because of your king which ye shall have chosen you; and the LORD will not hear you in that day.”

- 1 Samuel 8:10-18

The church to this day still tithes at 10 percent, and it is clear that the aspect of the lordship is still creating a dualistic construct, which makes people believe that the Lord God is the righteous one, while the king is the leech that feeds off of the people.

Both sides are tangent, one and the same. If the people choose a king, they choose the Lord, and if they choose the Lord, they choose a king. There is no difference.

The people are then under warship.

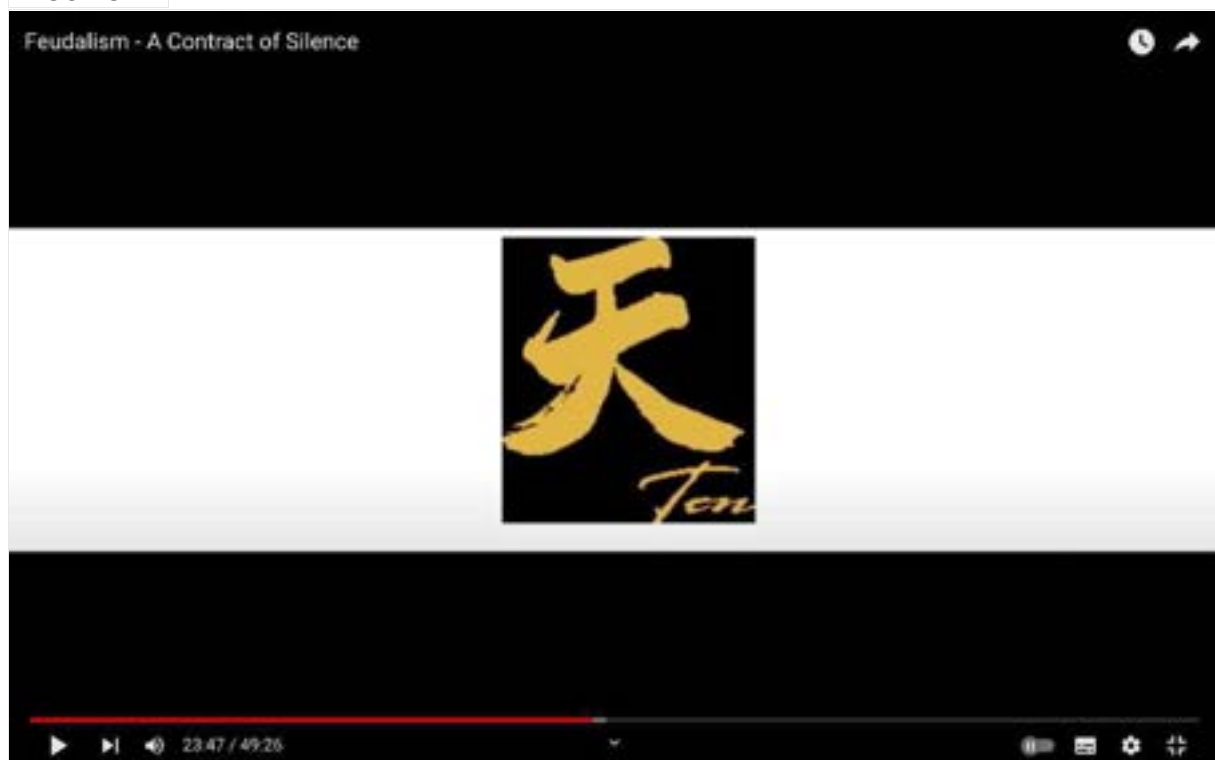

The importance of this set of passages is in showing that

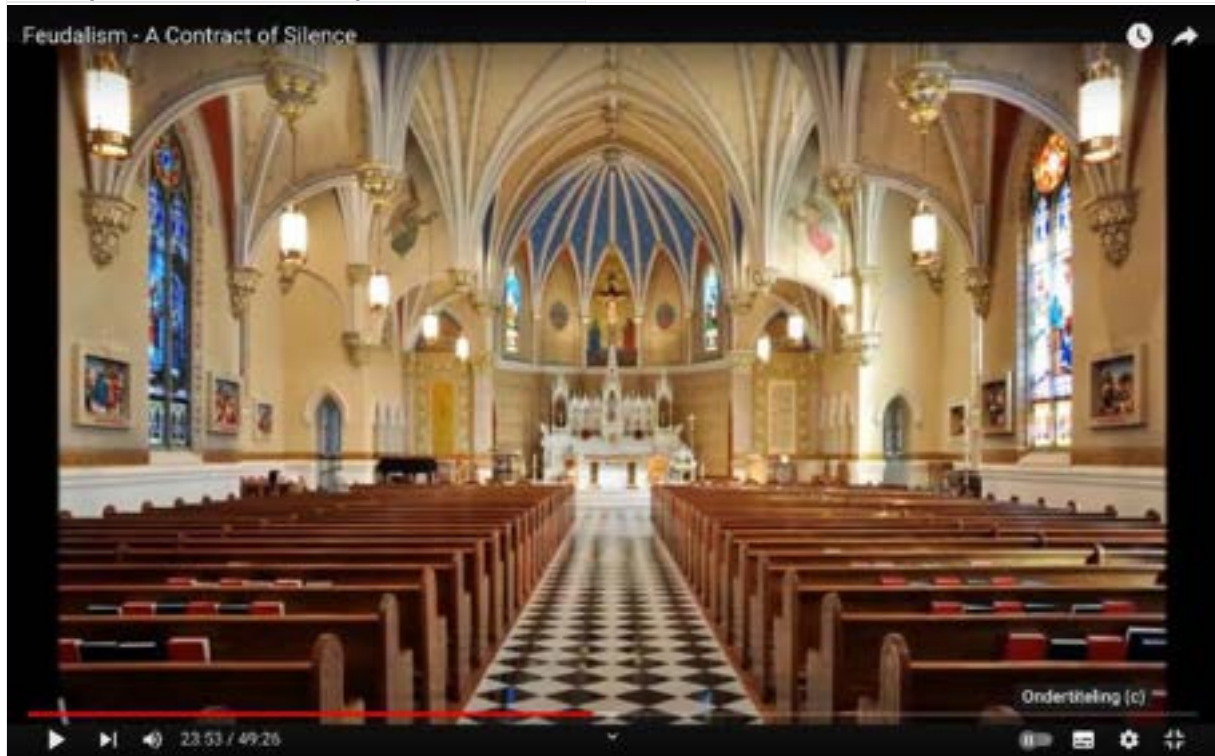

Why 10 percent?

One hidden meaning is shown in the Japanese word "ten" that means "heaven."

The church gets its congregation to believe in heaven and has a taxation set up that sends 10 percent there.

The second word in "fee simple" is a 14th century feudalistic noun that means "a person of humble birth, a commoner," and is also, through the definition, known as an ignoramus or a mentally retarded person.

Every person who is not considered royalty

There are no exceptions to this rule. This is how the ruling class views everyone, and anyone who goes into any financial institution and receives a feudalistic mortgage (death pledge) which is granted under the title of fee simple are declaring themselves to be a mentally retarded.

If that isn't enough of a link, let us look at the word "homage," which is a feudal ceremony whereby a man acknowledges themselves to be the vassal of a lord.

Homage is the symbol that signifies this relationship and all of the tributes, actions, payments, and obligations that go along with asking for this agreement.

Feudalism - A Contract of Silence

Oath of Citizenship

I swear (or affirm)
That I will be faithful
And bear true allegiance
To Her Majesty
Queen Elizabeth the Second
Queen of Canada
Her Heirs and Successors
And that I will faithfully observe
The laws of Canada
And fulfil my duties

25:20 / 49:26

Feudalism - A Contract of Silence

The Oath of Allegiance

- I hereby declare, on oath, that I absolutely and entirely renounce and abjure all allegiance and fidelity to any foreign prince, potentate, state, or sovereignty of whom or which I have heretofore been a subject or citizen;
- that I will support and defend the Constitution and laws of the United States of America against all enemies, foreign and domestic;
- that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same;
- that I will bear arms on behalf of the United States when required by law;
- that I will perform noncombatant service in the Armed Forces of the United States when required by the law;
- that I will perform work of national importance under civilian direction when required by the law;
- and that I take this obligation freely without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion;
- so help me God.

25:32 / 49:26

The Oath of Allegiance breaks the former trust and ties the individual to feudal bondage under a LORD with the requirement of military service and the payment of feudal taxes and rents.

Homage itself is from the Anglo-French 'homage' which was from 'home' meaning "man, vassal" and is where the English language gets the word "home" from. The connection is buffered more so when seeing the strand that goes to the Latin 'homin-, ' and 'homo' for "human being" which is akin to the Latin 'humus' meaning "earth." Though most likely not found through research, 'humus' and 'human' are easily comparable. The Latin 'humus' and 'humilis' are related with the latter stating "low, humble."

26:18 / 49:26

A synonym for "humble" is "simple," as in "fee simple," and the chiding doesn't end there, since a key definition for the word "low" is the "deep, sustained sound characteristic of a cow."

26:35 / 49:26

The cattle symbolism is prevalent. The lowborn or cattle breed are those who are born with little or no social status, which include the "low bred" (meaning rude, vulgar) and also "low brows" that signifies something that is suitable for someone with very little intellectualism.

The "low" creates the "debt of light," as shown in another etymological confirmation of "Lo" being from the Old English word "shown" for "light," and why the phonetic of "debt" is related to "depth," which is another definition of "low."

That's why people say they are drowning in debt, which is akin to saying you are drowning in depth, which makes a lot more sense logically.

The debt/dead of light/life is the burden of being contractually “sined/signed” and clothed/closed in by time.

27:33 / 49:26

Homage is a pledge and a mortgage is a “death pledge” whereby homage is from 'home' with a mortgage being the title of Fee Simple granted to receive a home.

27:44 / 49:26

inside of the home of the "humus" (Earth). The "debt dead" are carried, which cannot even be denied, since this is where the dead are buried in the earth.

They are buried six feet under, because 'six' is from the Latin 'sex,' which is how the seeds of new life from the son/sun are dis-semen-ated inside of a womb-an and thus into the moon.

28:06 / 49:26

The number '40' signifies the 40 weeks of gestation - or rebirth - which is 280 days. (40 years in the desert, (moses) 40 days on the 'arc', (noah) etc.)

From the moment of conception this number is 266 days.

28:15 / 49:26

The 266th Pope, signifying the "re-birth" of the ages.

The agitated might also think there are no connections between disseminated and 'semen.' The etymology again disagrees with those whose minds become inflamed by this information as shown with 'disseminate' being from the Latin 'dis-' (god of the underworld) and 'seminare' meaning "to sow," which is also from 'semin-' and 'semen' for "seed." 'Seminars' are given because of this, since one shall "reap what they sow," most especially mentally.

Semen is from the Old High German 'sāmo' for "seed," and the Latin 'serere' translated as "to sow." A sow, however, is an adult female swine, or pig that gives the relation as shown in 'A Divine Comedy,' to Circe turning men into swine, while Circe is related to the church. 'Sus' in Latin means "pig" and the savior depicted on the cross is called Je-Sus.

The church (XX chromosomes/chrōma/color) represents the “beginning of light” and time, (Chronos/Saturn) or the 'Anno Lucis.'

The dead or debt is “buried” six feet under which is the reason that banks have you 'borrow' money since to 'borrow' is to “burrow” with the Middle English 'borow' meaning “burrow.”

▶ 29:31 / 49:26

⏮ ⏪ ⏩ ⏭ ⚙ ⏴ ⏵

“Borrow” is also from the Old English 'borgian' as related to the Old High German 'bergan' meaning “bury, shelter.” 'Bergan' is cognate with the Old English 'byrgan' which is related to the Anglo-French 'bargainer.'

This is the reason that in commerce, people are digging for bargains.

The debt dead is burrowed or buried in the banks, which collect interest because to enter is to place something in a grave or tomb.

It is the tomb in the East, which is where the sun rises. The sun that was dead is now risen in the East.

People then go in for a loan for a home, which is a mortgage—a death pledge—which is amortized,

This represents the fall of man in a feudalistic state.

A feud is a never-ending battle.

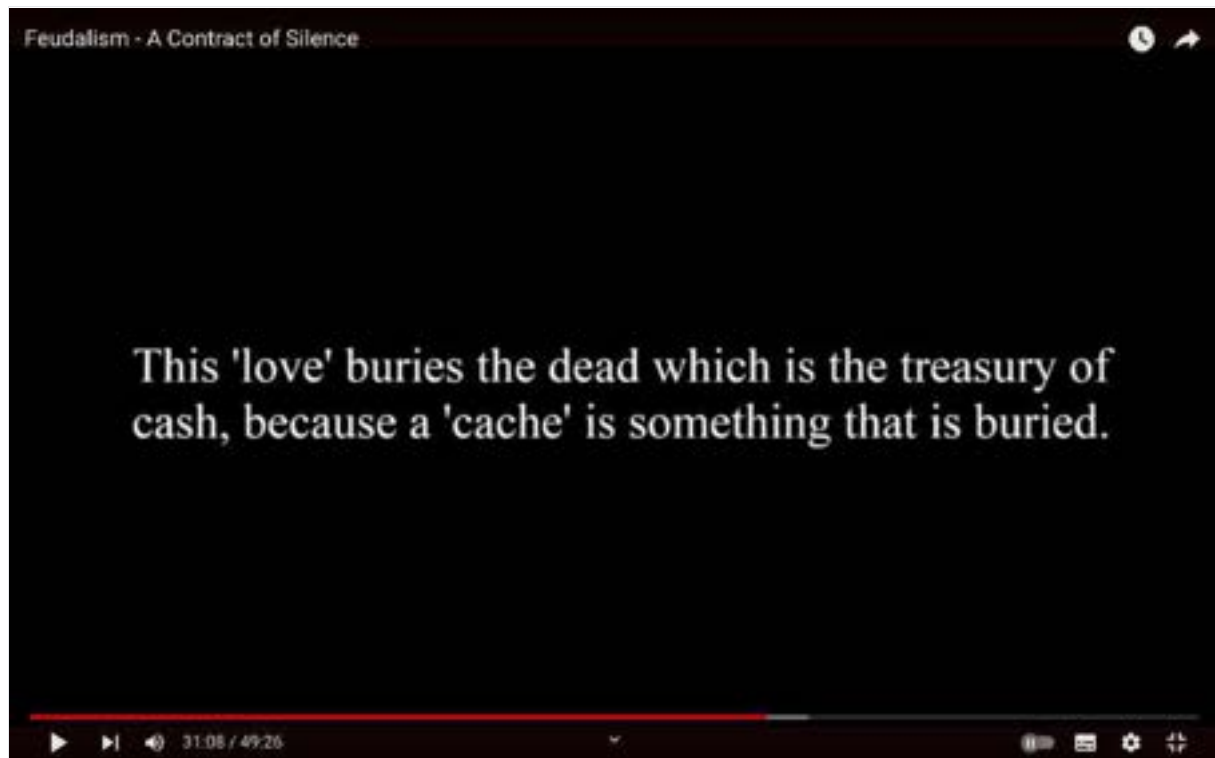

Humans are considered human resources for this reason.

It is also related to the love of copulation, as shown in the further breakdown of this word, with "Amor" being the Roman god of love.

If cash isn't being used, it's now digital money, which is called cryptocurrency, because a "crypt" is a burial chamber, especially one that is situated beneath a church.

We are being used like money, and once the reduction of value due to amortization is reached at death, then one is bankrupt, which leads to rupture and rapture.

The two words rupture and rapture are cognate, as shown through these connections:

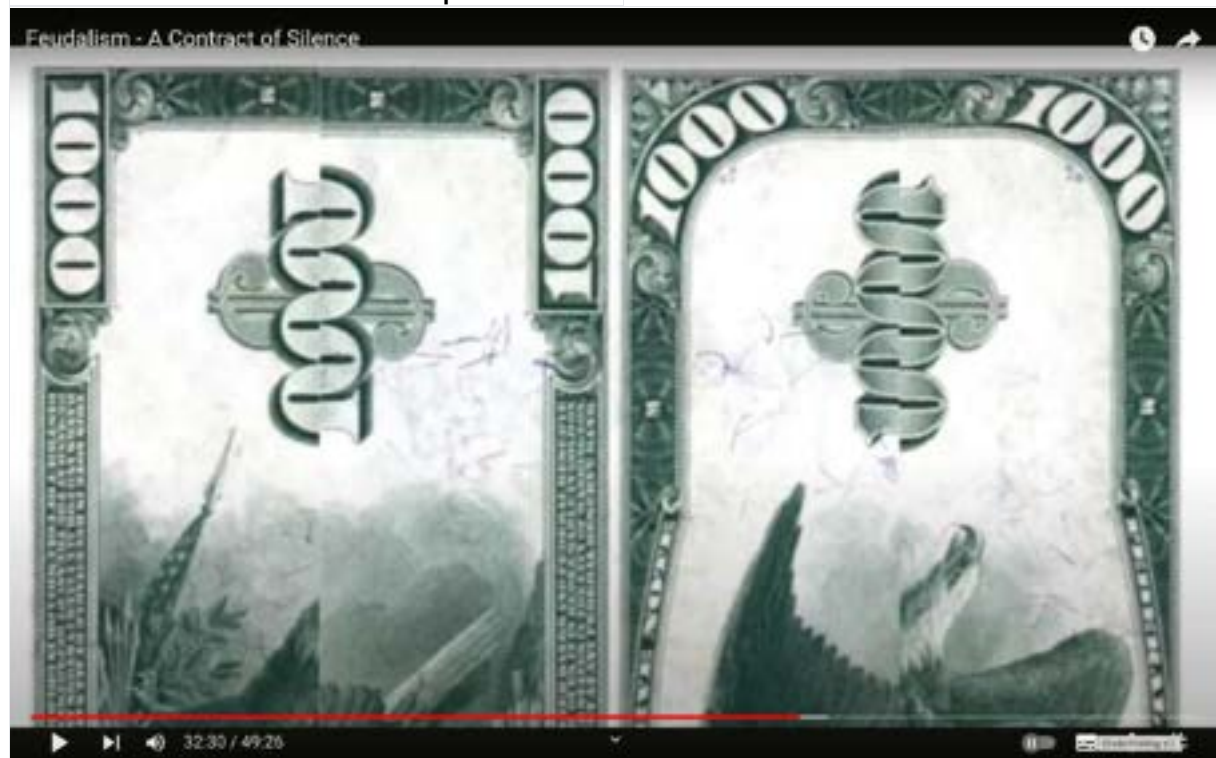

'Revenir' returns the debt/dead.

It has been shown that rapture is something that is robbed, and the very definition of rapture is something that is robbed, snatched, or carried off.

"Rapture" and "raptor" are also family members, with "raptor" being the Latin term for "robber" or "plunderer."

A raptor is a bird of prey, such as an eagle or a hawk, and to hawk something is to sell it from place to place.

32:37 / 49:26

32:44 / 49:26

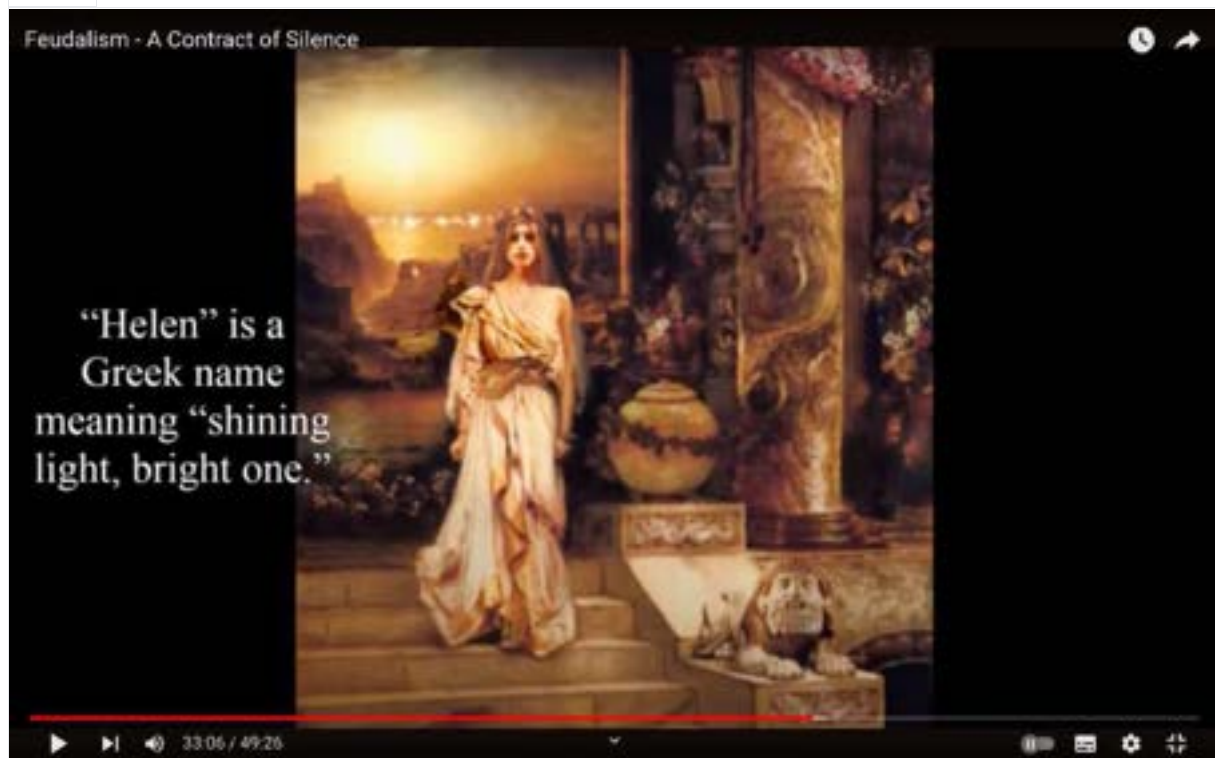

"Helen" is related to the chase after Helen, as depicted in Homer's epic poem "The Iliad," since

This is the light at death that everyone sees, which seems so wonderful, but the etymology again shows that Helen also means to accept and sell stolen goods, as related back to rapture and raptor.

The raptor is the bird of prey, such as a hawk, that accepts everyone into its light, because in banking, everyone gets billed, and a bill is the horny projecting mouth of a bird.

That's also why people like things to be cheap, because a "cheap" is the high-pitched sound of a younger bird.

To be in "hawk" is to be in debt for something or to offer something as a surety;

it is to pawn it and again shows our imprisoned state, with the etymology of

It is why there is the masonry hawk that is used as a mortar board, with the first four letters of "mart" being from the French for "dead."

This symbol is worn on the day of scholastic graduation above the head, symbolizing the imprisonment of the mind.

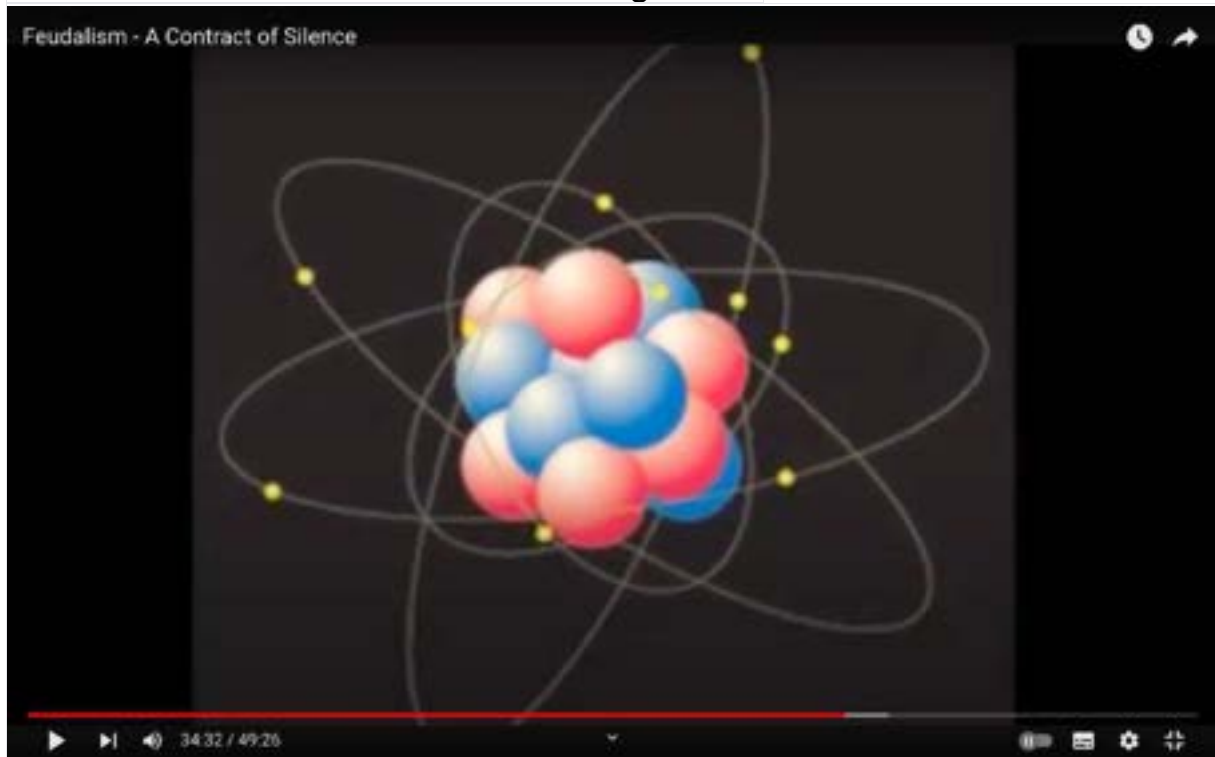

The square or cube, in occult terms, represents the imprisonment of matter.

Mortar is used as a bond to cover a wall, and a bond is an electrical force linking atoms

while also being a certificate of debt.

The word "mort" is taken another step in the same direction, as it is connected with the Middle English "moat," translating into "grain of sand."

As being connected with

While a mot is a tiny speck or a particle.

"Mot" is also known as the god of death and sterility.

So mote it be,
since 'mote'
(death) is also an indication of something that “must be” (from the Old English
'mōtan' as connected with Wotan/Mercury)

34:59 / 49:26

Mote also signifies 'mute' since a dead person is obviously silent giving reference to why 'silence/license' is so relevant to everyone's situation.

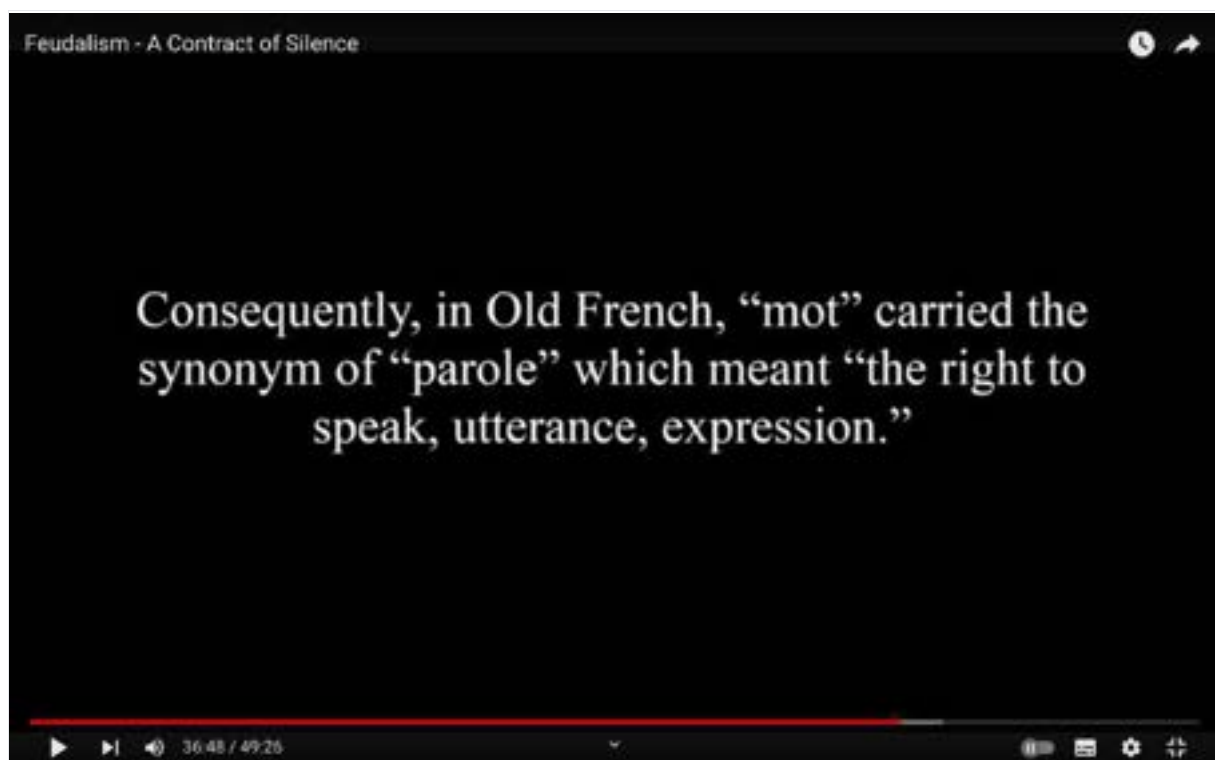

Mort, meaning death, was also an archaic (cryptolect) expression signifying 'woman,' with an emphasis on a lack of 'mor'ality, and 'mot' is the first three letters of 'mot'her with all indications pointing out the connections between 'mother' and 'matter.'

There is no disrespect meant in the revealing of this, since both sexes are united equally in this incredible situation.

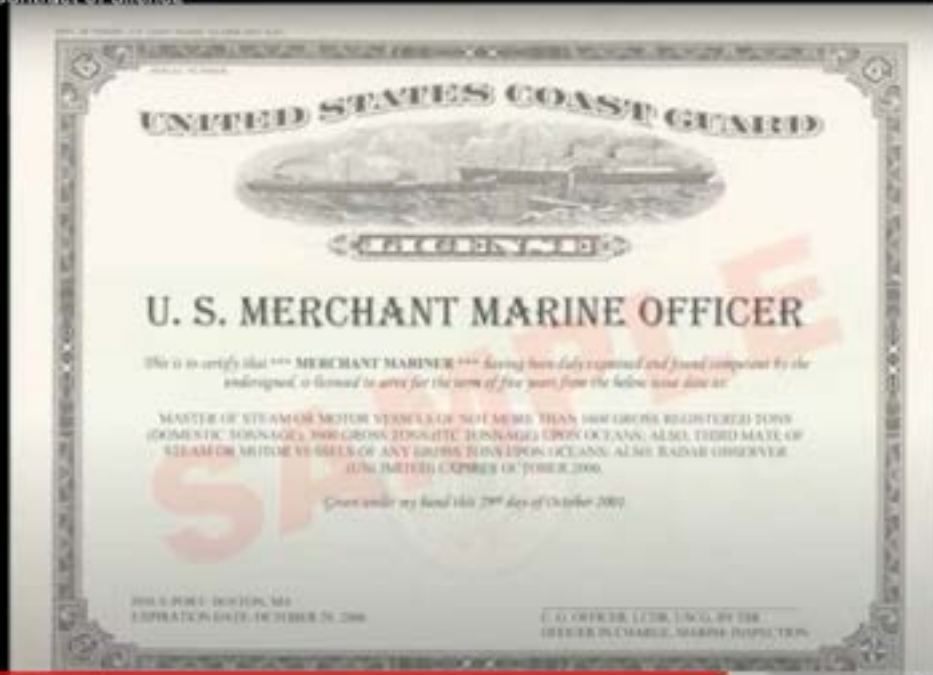

'La petite mort' - French for 'the little death,' used as an expression for sexual orgasm.
(The "feeling" connected to 'rapture'/bankruptcy)
Sex and death are one and the same.

There is the phrase, 'its bound to matter,' and this is correct, because to be 'bound' to something is to be 'bonded' to it, as in a 'binding' contract. 'Mot' has been demonstrated in language circles to have formed the English 'motto' which is a slogan, or saying, or catchphrase that is used by certain people, and 'motto' is from the Latin 'muttum' meaning "sound, grunt." which is tangent to the French etymology in the French noun 'mot' meaning 'word, note.'

This is the opposite of silence, which is the bearing of a license and the right to remain silent.

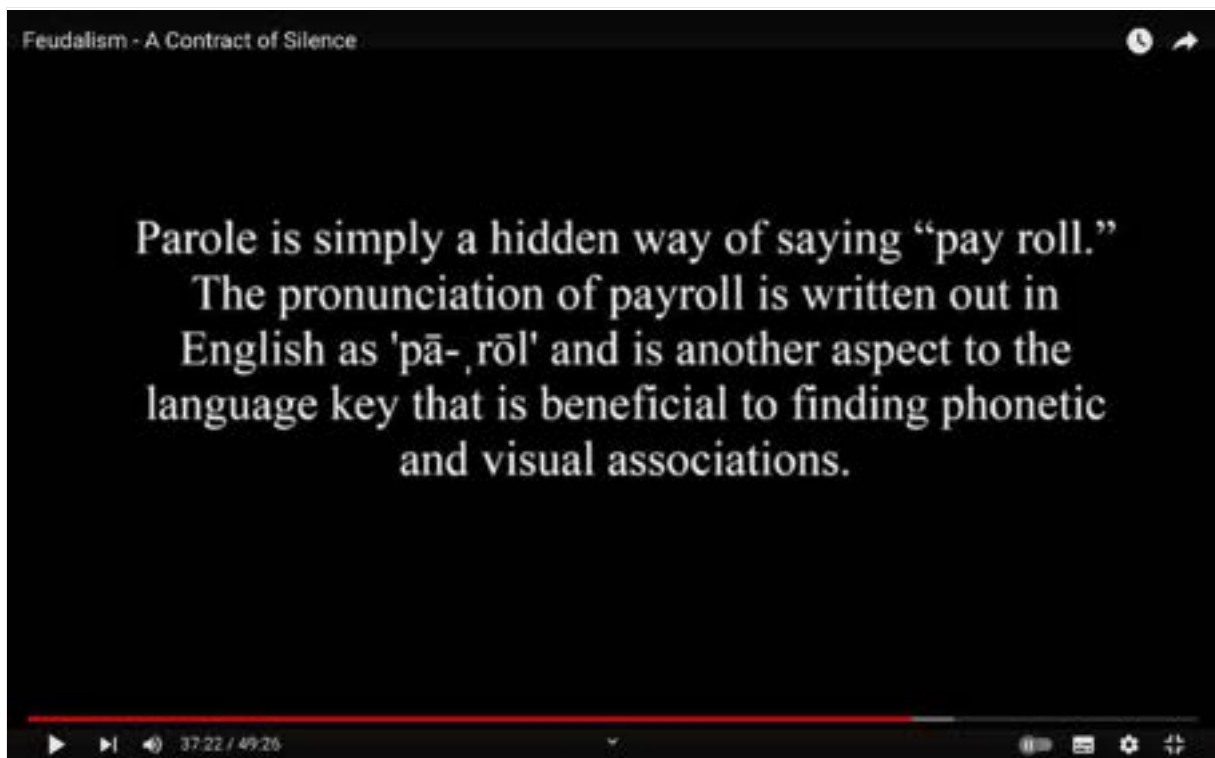

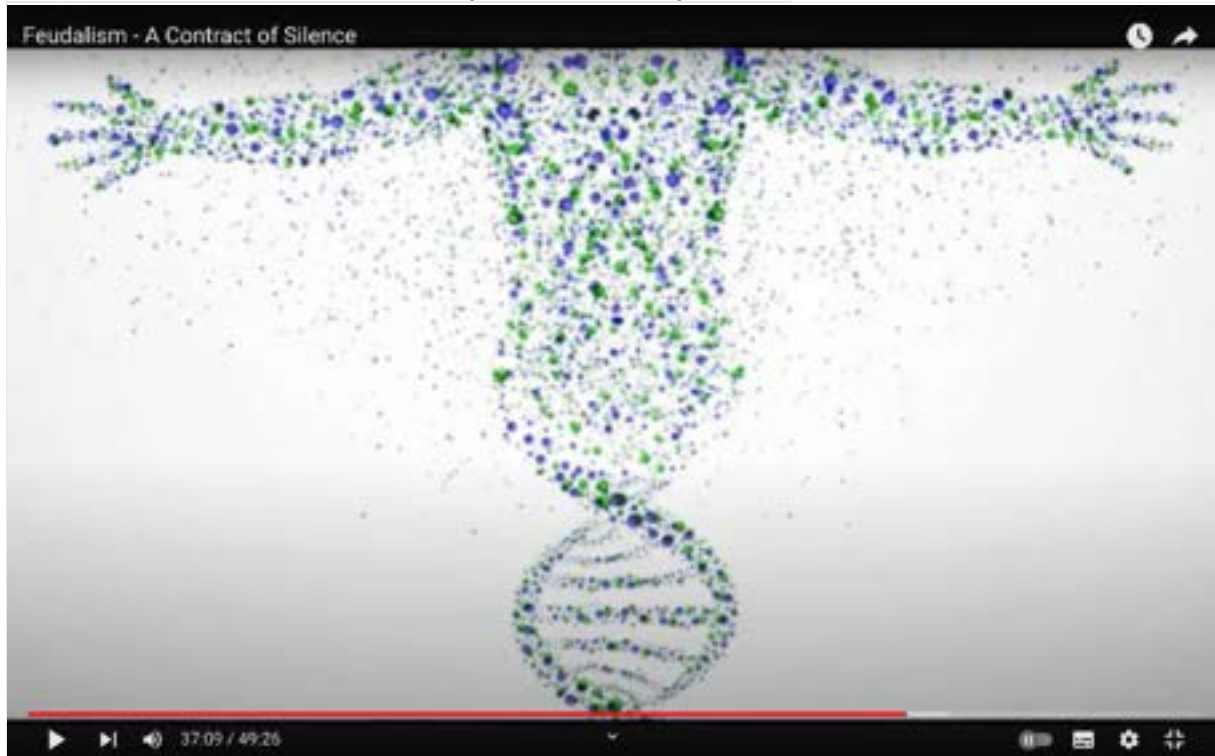

By definition, a

Parole signifies
“a promise,” and “a secret word or phrase known only to a restricted group”

as linked with "motto,"

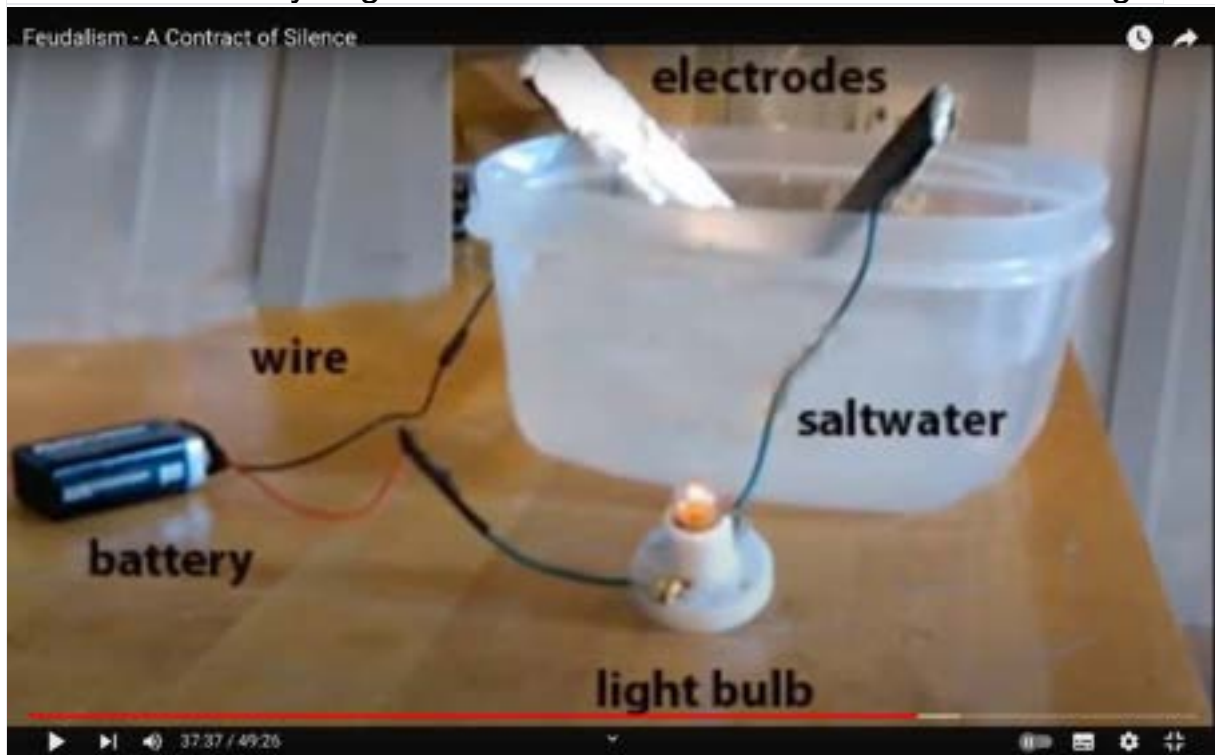

and also a conditional release from imprisonment. It is to release a criminal from detention and put them on parole.

To be on parole, the payroll is to receive one's salt or salary, which is the ability to generate an electrical connection and discharge.

This all wraps itself into the essence of the occult mystery and the triple aspect of salt, mercury, and sulfur.

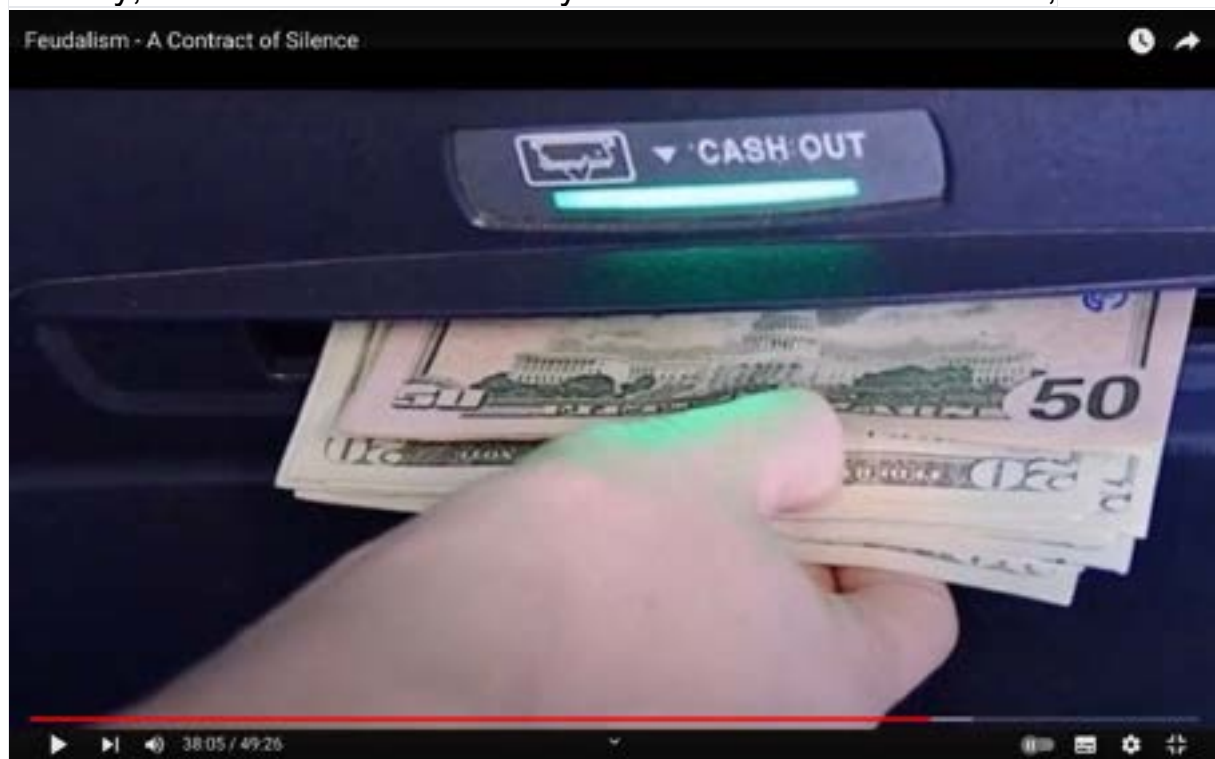

Mercury represents the crossing of the sign; the salt creates the connection, and sulfur is the discharge

Father, Son, Holy Spirit.

Usually, a withdrawal is necessary in commercial terms as well, and this caters to the aspect of a parole release, since another banking term is "decedent," which refers to a dead person.

It is to withdraw the debt dead from the banks.

This is all feudalistic related back to the king, since a check is from various languages that all mean "king," and it is a check that is cached in the tomb womb of the moon for three days, representing the symbolic three days of the dark moon before the boulder of it is rolled away and the light of the new moon is shown again, which is the rebirth of the Savior King.

Deposits and withdrawals, life and death.

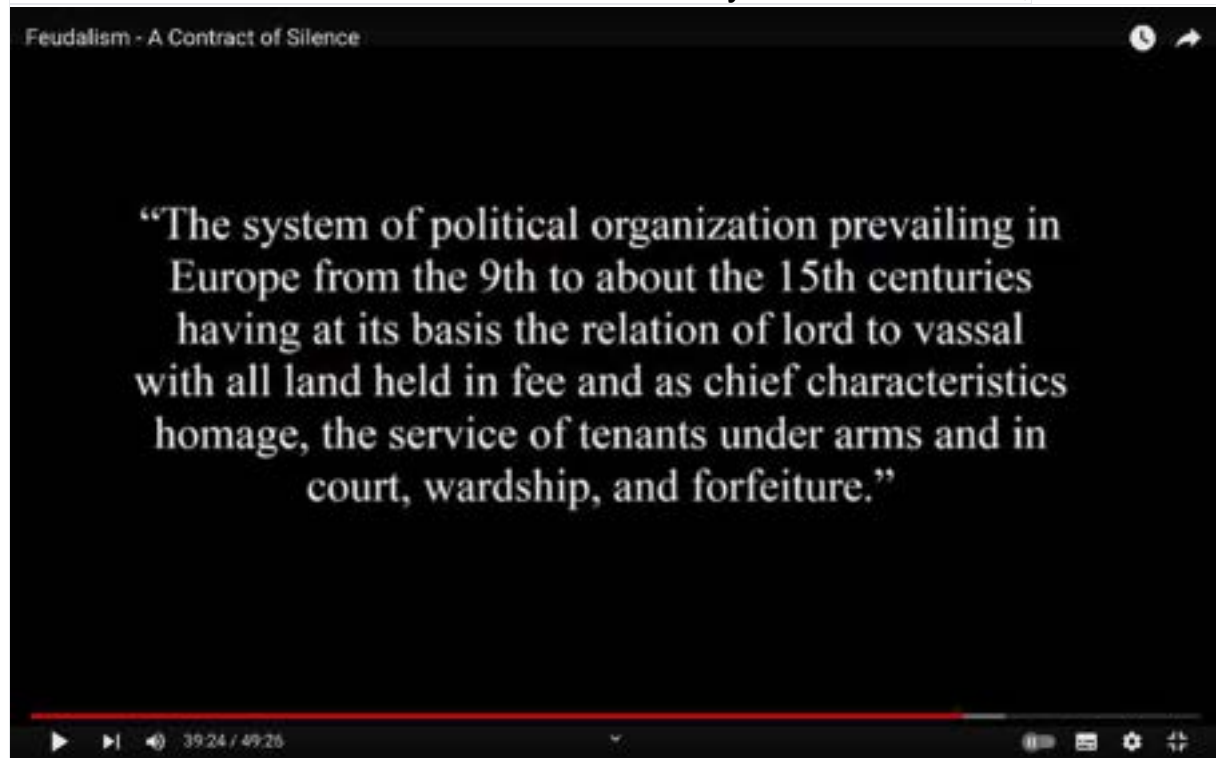

To be decadent is to also be excessively self-indulgent and morally in decline, which connects us directly back with the aspect of alloy and licentiousness.

If we circle around again to the original definition of feudalism, it is seen that one of the chief characteristics of this system is forfeiture, which is something that is lost or surrendered as a penalty.

It seems quite obvious from everything that has been shown thus far and the fact of everyone's experience that the greatest forfeiture is one's very life is a death pledge.

The arrogant

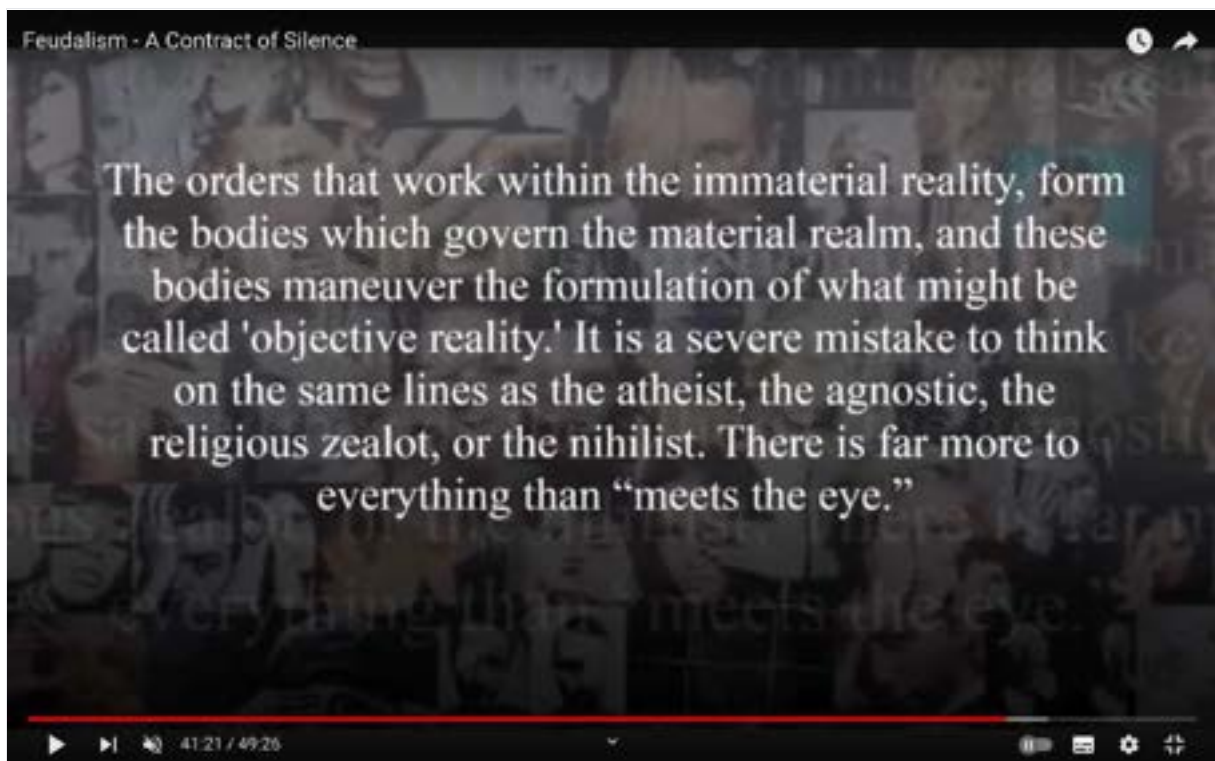

The arrogant assume that there is no such demarcation – that their “consciousness” and “being” arrived in their particular individual vessel through sheer random and unintelligent chaotic chance. Their life is nothing more than the accumulation of accidents and absurdities that have no connection or meaning towards anything other than the purposeless meanderings of a short life to be lived unidirectionally until it reaches its sympathetic union with a nihilistic understanding of oblivion. It (hubris) believes its actions to have no consequence or effect on any other variables including itself. There is only the “seen” and the comprehension of everything is complete and absolute – there is nothing “beyond” or “above” or “below” it.

The self-important mind cannot comprehend that great orders are already in place—orders which engineers or scientists call discoveries or inventions, which are simply the realizations of arrangements that operate and function because of previous inherent designs, that are intelligently hidden from view.

There is far more to everything that “meets the eye.”

Another connection that is overlooked entirely is that since all land is held in the public trust under the title "fee simple," and the human body is comprised of the elements of the Earth or land, what is being stated is that

Feudalism - A Contract of Silence

The human body also has a fee simple title that every person holds on it which is why it can be taxed as property.

The birth certificate creates the legal trust upon which this is founded, and when the parental authority signs this, it is sent as an Inter vivos gift to the government, which becomes a part of the Roman treasury of the Vatican.

In return, the governing bodies of the world send back a death certificate, which incorporates the person who has just been born into the collective ownership of this operation and creates the bond of trust towards the death pledge within this reality.

The death certificate or bond also determines the assets that the deceased has, which are then valued, while it also transfers these assets from the new human resource to the governing institutions and funnels the taxes that they declare are now due to these same overlords.

All of this creates the evidence of a bond that ties together the labor class, which is why the certifications appropriately happen at birth. (And death of course. The "beginning" is simultaneously the "ending.")

To go into labor is to bring forth another 'prole' (offspring) who has received 'parole' and is thus born into bondage. To be born into labor/slavery, which is the human mark of 'Capitis deminutio maxima.'

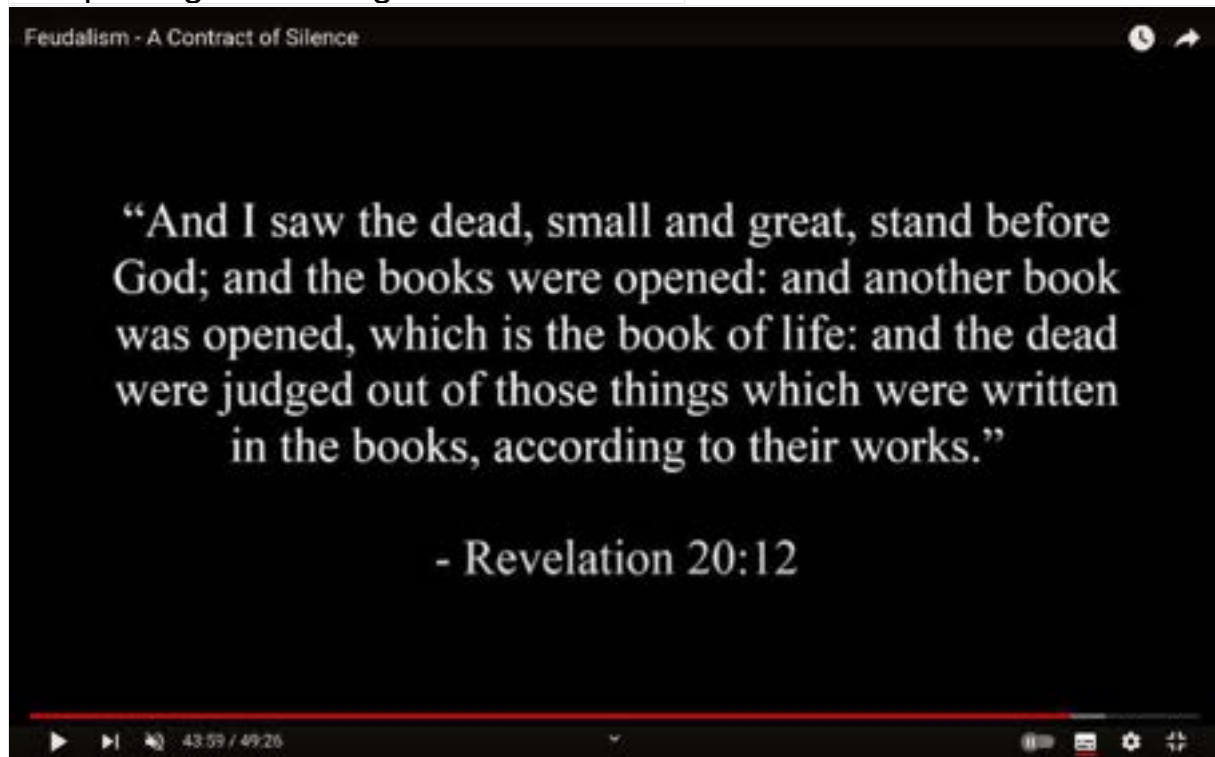

The certificates are all issued into the revelatory Book of Life, which creates the ultimate Domesday Book, as signified in the symbol of the same name from the historical British census that was ordered by William the Conqueror.

Which is the day of final judgment according to the biblical Book of Revelation.

The passage indicating this is as follows:

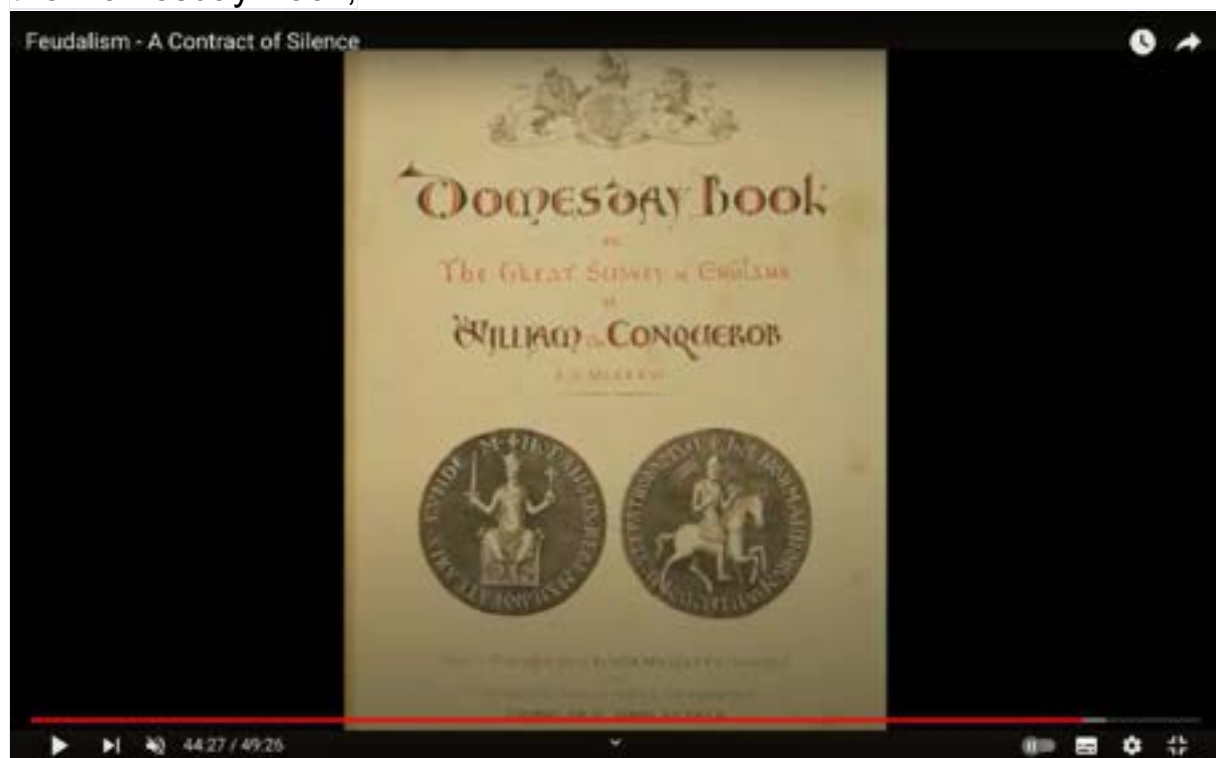

This is the actual basis of the 2012 symbol that so many have associated with Mayan astrology and the end of the world.

If feudalism and its enormous implications are no longer relevant as connected to such things as the Domesday Book,

why is there the Declaration of demesne land, otherwise known as "Crown Land."

This comes from two words:

Hence,

It is essentially middle management, and what this definition is telling us is that the deemed or de facto authorities that everyone is calling the king, queen, president, prime minister, and so on,

are simply the feudal tenants to their own superior authorities as well.

They have further masters to answer to, which creates an august body that the people in the public have no idea about.

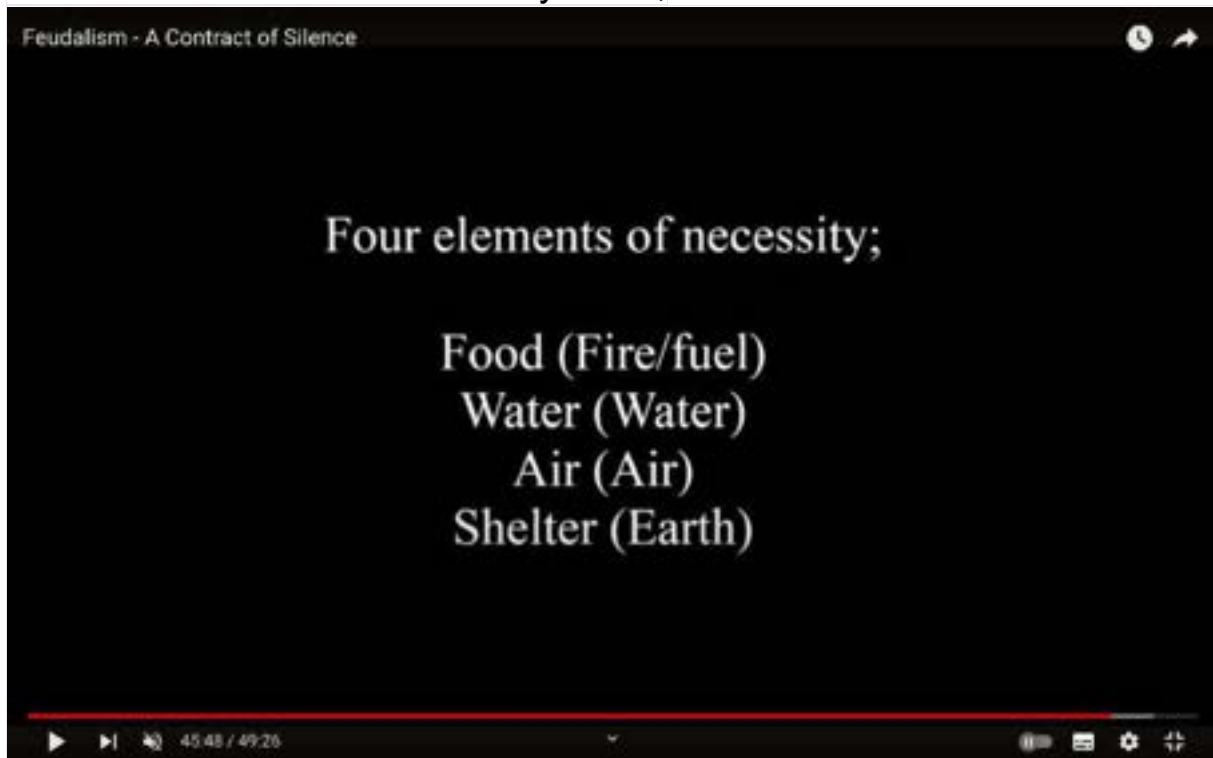

Is this not the reason that even the feudalistic pope is said to be just the vicar to the Lord?

Because he is vicariously acting as an agent to his own master.

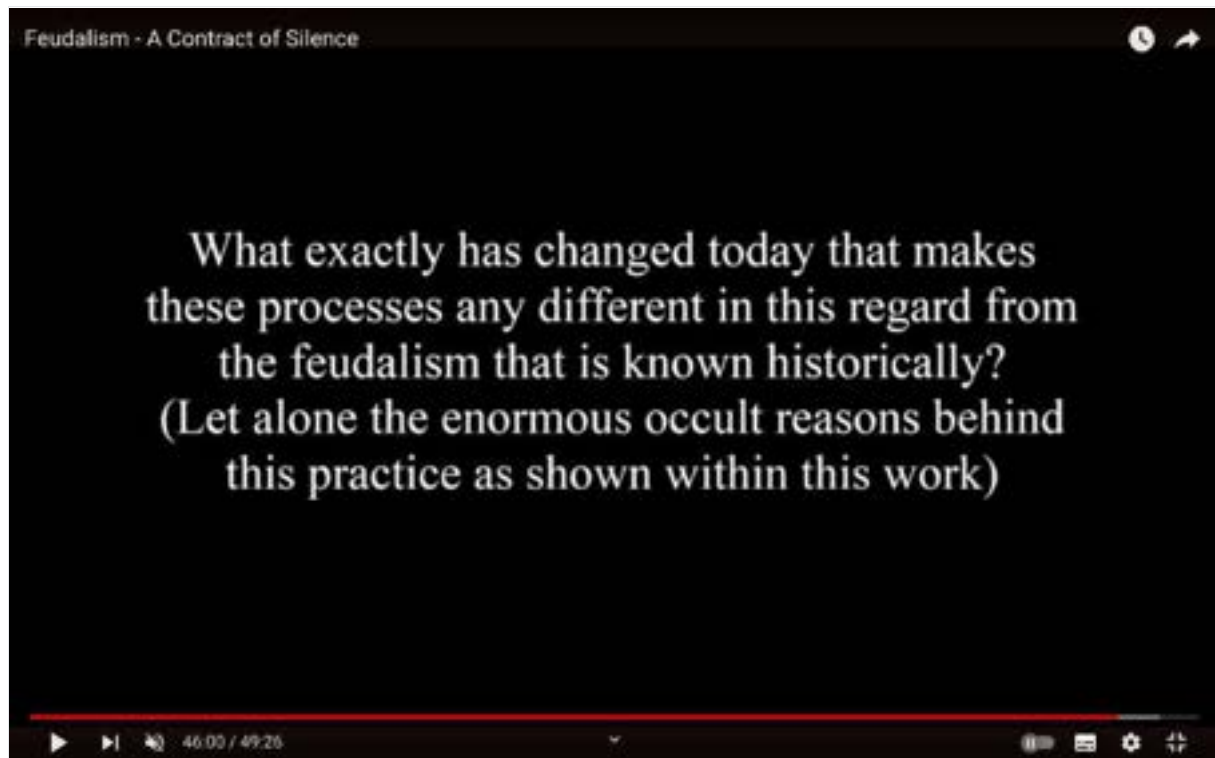

If shelter is an absolute necessity of life, so why is there a commandment to ask for permissions, permits, licenses, and the use of feudalistic coin called money to acquire it?

It matters not where in the world we look; the principles behind this are all the same.

The land is all claimed by the governing authorities, and the people need to ask permission to use it.

This concurs with the human vessel which needs to ask permission to do any action, and is taxed and fined upon every action, and even inaction. Licenses and permits to build shelter, marry, drive, farm, create associations in business, which destroys the validity behind the concept of freedom of association as even tied with taxation/fines on marriage, divorce or "common law partners." Licenses, bonds, and certificates to be born and to die. Taxation on the air you breathe with carbon taxes because humans are carbon based life-forms. Permits, licenses, social security approvals and contracts to practice any vocation, which is complete irony. Fines and permissions called "passports" to travel anywhere under the guise of "terrorism" and "border control" (yet, how was one born into any "country?") Permits and fines to feed the homeless, but giving them money to participate in the hatred and death of commerce is perfectly okay.

It would be "beating a dead horse" to list it all.

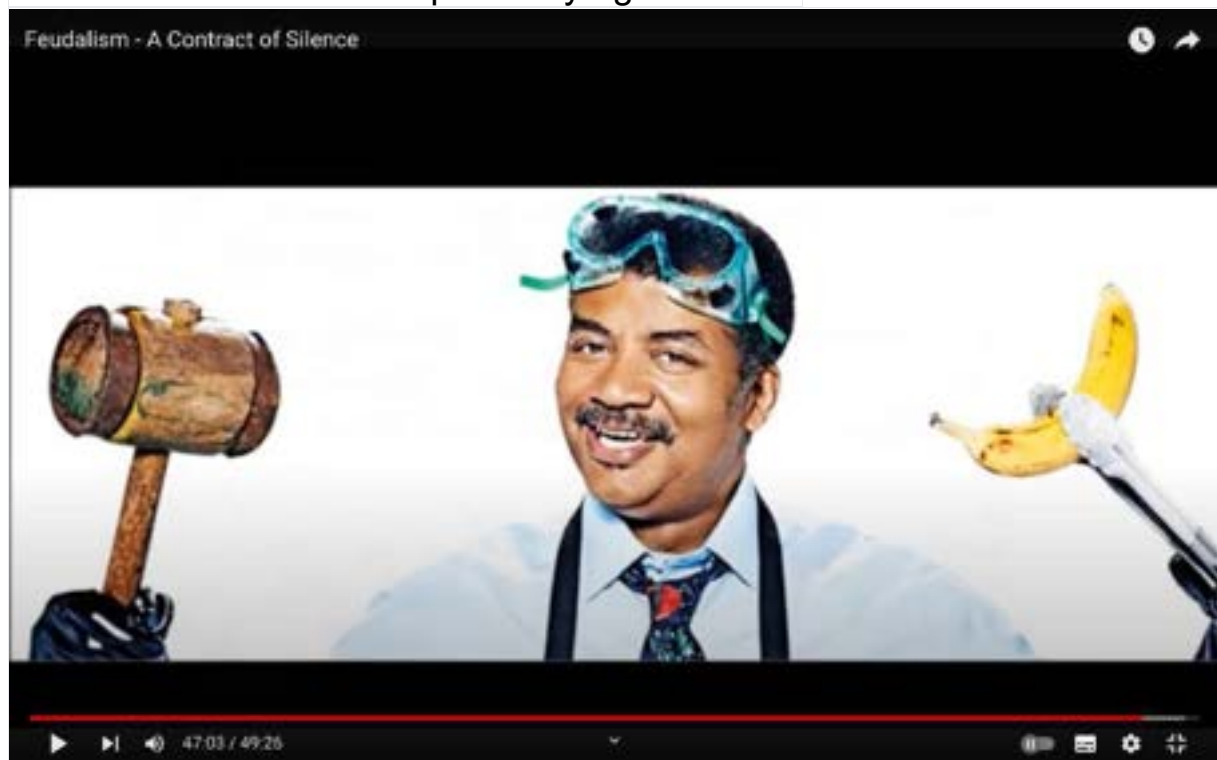

There is no such thing as an allodial title, which means to outright own a thing free from any obligations towards liens, taxes, mortgages, etc. An allodial title marks a difference between that which is owned without those obligations to that of feudal ownership.

ALLODIAL. Free; not holden of any lord or superior; owned without obligation of vassalage or fealty; the opposite of feudal. Barker v. Dayton, 28 Wis. 384; Wallace v. Harmstad, 44 Pa. 499.

ALLODIUM. Land held absolutely in one's own right, and not of any lord or superior; land not subject to feudal duties or burdens.

An estate held by absolute ownership, without recognizing any superior to whom any duty is due on account thereof. 1 Washb. Real Prop. 16. Mc'artee v. Orphan Asylum, 9 Cow. (N. Y.) 511, 18 Am. Dec. 516.

What will the so-called experts say against this?

Feudalism is alive and well; it has never gone away.

Feudal ownership is dependent upon a relationship to a lord or a sovereign.

The argument might be made that the United States is different, where an allodial title is still dominant, but anyone not trying to fool themselves will see that this is completely unfounded.

All land transferred is now under fee simple title;

everyone is paying their land taxes to their feudal masters.

Allodial means 'alloted by god,' but the voting public are asking for a ruling “king” and are therefore removing themselves from their true inheritance.

Regardless, even the term "allodial" is tainted with so many ties to feudalism and freehold concepts.

The government holds eminent domain over the entire world, and everyone, without exception, is claimed as being owned by them.

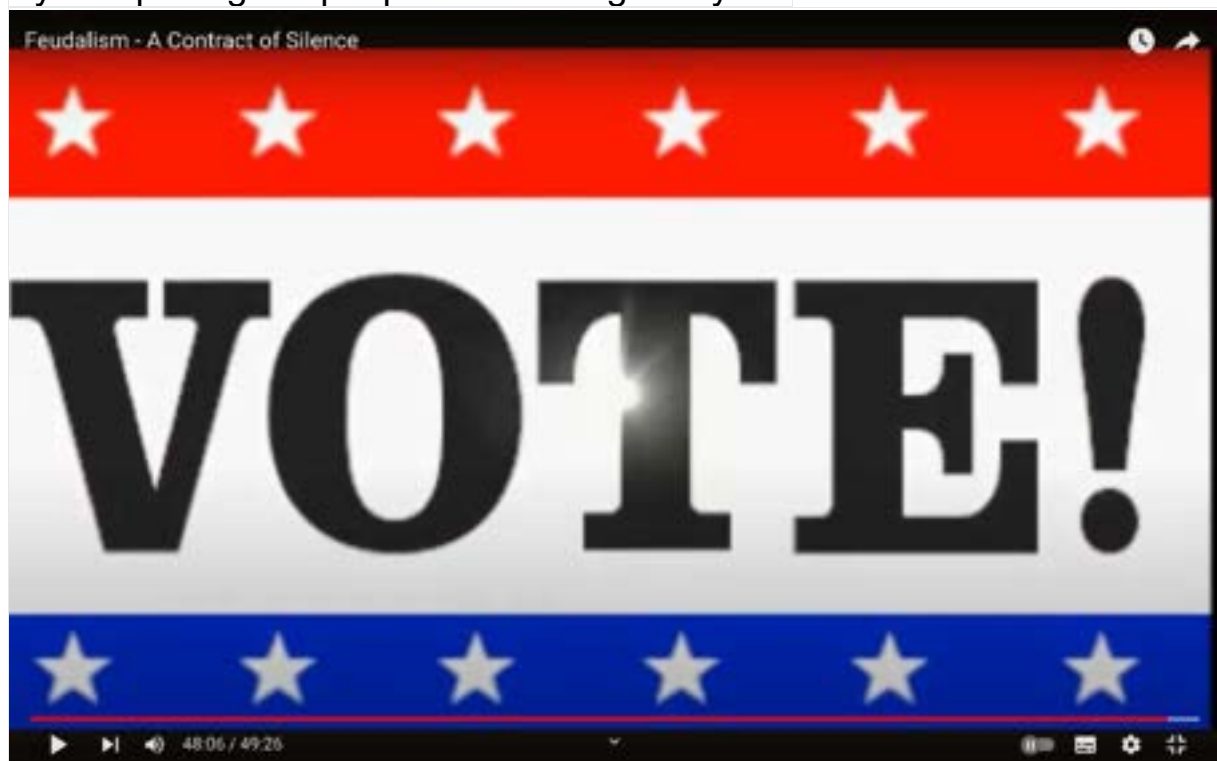

This is all accomplished through force of will and the methods of war and conquering.

By conquering the people and forcing everyone into a constituency under a king, there is no longer any option to even live outside of the confines of commerce to even survive at all.

Everyone needs to fight each other to chase monetary symbols to endlessly pay rent, or division to divide and conquer.

Commerce is not a choice; it is a mandate.

Feudalism - A Contract of Silence

When there is no choice, free will is an illusion, which makes the concept of freedom a complete fabrication.

Every moment, every action is based upon the contingency that you have been allotted the permission to do such an action within the chains and confines of the multitudes of mental ordinances and regulations. Those in this imprisoned state who feel protected by these barriers lambast any who dare to question it or unshackle themselves or others from its grips and snares. The firewalls have become our very friends, neighbors, and family members – and perhaps worst of all, ourselves.
